WOMAN AND HER HOME.

COMFORT IN THE GARDEN.

WHILE the garden may be beautiful and artistic it is not always restful and comfortable. When one has walked or worked in the garden for some time, a luxurious seat is the most desirable thing, one being loth to leave the beauty and sweetness that nature provides yet being unable to enjoy it; and nothing is so welcome as a garden settee, such as is depicted herewith, or a cushion or pouffe on which to take a rest and have a pleasant chat.

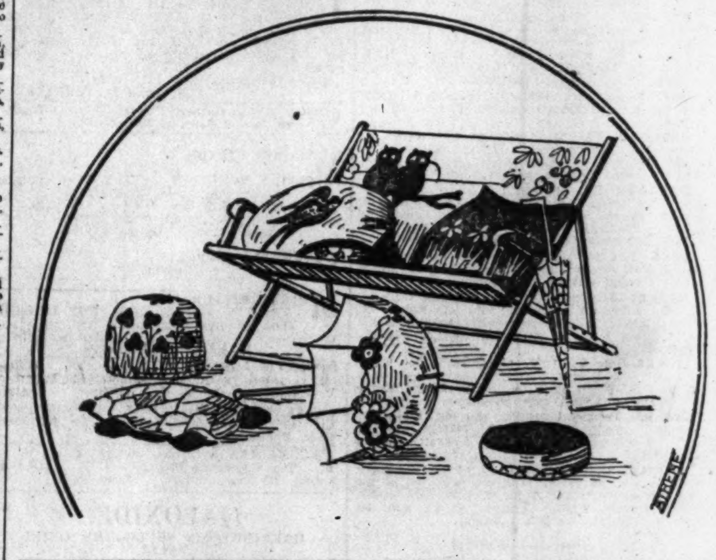

The placing of such furnishments about the garden adds wonderfully to its artistic appearance, as well as affording restful enjoyment. The colours, designs and shapes of both seats and cushions that can be had nowadays are almost bewildering in variety.

The seats—chairs, settees, swinging hammock chairs—are brilliant with colour and seductive in appearance; and the designs—either "worked" or painted upon the fabrics—are unique and highly artistic.

Of cushion shapes there are multitudes—some in the form of animals, birds, huge insects, and "humpty-dumpty" human figures; some round, oblong, square; some in single colour and simple make-up—others in several shades and artistic contour; all helping to add to garden gaiety, and providing means for rest and the better enjoyment of social amenities.

The garden lover of to-day is well catered for—the shops are crammed with delightful objects of garden furnishings, needing only the bright sunshine to enhance their intrinsic beauty and utility.

H.A.D.

THE VACANT HOUSE.

WHEN the whole household takes a holiday at the same time, certain preparations must be made as regards leaving the house unoccupied. Even if the holiday is to be a short one, precautions must be taken to guard against possible mishaps.

It is most necessary to turn off the water supply at the main, also the gas supply at the meter, so that there can be no possibility of leakages from either source during absence from home. The electric current should likewise be disconnected.

Any Oriental or other valuable rugs should be carefully cleaned, and then rolled up in cedar paper or newspaper, care being taken to allow enough paper to extend over each side so that it may be turned over the ends of the rugs, thus entirely covering them. The paper should be secured in several places with a string or rope.

Upholstered furniture should be thoroughly cleaned—with a vacuum cleaner if possible—and then covered with dust-sheets.

The beds need special care. All the bed linen should be removed, and tucked in tightly on all sides to prevent dust, etc., from penetrating.

It is best not to leave any valuables in the house whilst it is empty. All silver, jewellery and important papers should be sent to the bank, and a receipt obtained for them. The silver should be carefully wrapped and packed—first in soft tissue paper or chamois leather, and then in baize cloths. An inventory should be taken before the packing is done.

It is most essential not to leave any scraps of food about, as mice have an uncanny sense of smell, and seem to arrive as if by magic if food is left within their reach. As they do not disappear as easily, it is wise to make due precautions. All stores such as sugar, salt, cereals, etc., should be put in tins with closely-fitting lids. When this is being done it is wise to see that a supply of all necessary stores are in stock, so that it will be easy to prepare a meal on the return of the family.

It is, of course, of the utmost importance to examine all locks, and to have any repaired that show any signs of weakness. The locks of windows should be firmly secured before the house is left, and a last inspection made to see that all doors are properly secured; and it is well that standing orders for provisions, etc., should be cancelled.

SUMMER SPECIALITIES.

WITH the coming of the warm weather the housewife finds herself in need of all kinds of special equipment. The usual routine has to be considerably altered to suit the desire of the family to be out of doors as much as possible.

Breakfast out of doors is particularly enjoyable, and can be arranged without trouble where there is a porch or sheltered spot. The new portable porcelain enamel table is very useful for garden meals and also for whatever preparation of meals, etc., can be carried on in the porch. It is just as easy to shell the peas, slice the beans, and clean the silver in the fresh air, and far more comfortable for the housewife on a hot day. If she has a table of this nature, with legs which can be unscrewed and fixed again in place in a few seconds, she can quickly transport her work to the garden area.

Then, again, a two-tiered service wagon is a great service, both for carrying the food, etc., from house to garden dining spot and for conveying one's work and play treasures from one point to another.

Every household, too, will appreciate the little ice-making machine, in which three solid blocks of ice can be manufactured from flasks of water in seven minutes. The flasks are placed in a container and surrounded with water containing certain chemicals, a handle is turned, and at the end of the seven minutes there is the ice for use in the kitchen, etc. The same apparatus will make icecream!

Where electricity is available the new iceless refrigerator is a great boon. With the use of this system the temperature is maintained twelve degrees colder than ice, and food will keep in perfect condition. As well as keeping the food cool, this refrigerator will freeze ice-creams and make ice-blocks as desired. It can be run from any electric point for a few pence per day, and is an excellent invention.

A very useful as well as novel piece of equipment is the bunk bed, which, as its name implies, is made on the bunk principle. Two comfortable spring beds are fitted one over the other on a strong oak frame. For the porch bedroom or for use in the summer bungalow where space is limited this device is most useful, as it is, indeed, in any small bedroom which has to be shared by two people.

These are but a few of the clever appliances which are a considerable aid to summer housekeeping.

THE GARDEN.

mock chairs—are brilliant with colour and seductive in appearance; and the designs—either "worked" or painted upon the fabrics—are unique and highly artistic.

Of cushion shapes there are multitudes—some in the form of animals, birds, huge insects, and "humpty-dumpty" human figures; some round, oblong, square; some in single colour and simple make-up—others in several shades and artistic contour; all helping to add to garden gaiety, and providing means for rest and the better enjoyment of social amenities.

The garden lover of to-day is well catered for—the shops are crammed with delightful objects of garden furnishings, needing only the bright sunshine to enhance their intrinsic beauty and utility. H.A.D.

SUMMER SPECIALITIES.

WITH the coming of the warm weather the housewife finds herself in need of all kinds of special equipment. The usual routine has to be considerably altered to suit the desire of the family to be out of doors as much as possible.

Breakfast out of doors is particularly enjoyable, and can be arranged without trouble where there is a porch or sheltered spot. The new portable porcelain enamel table is very useful for garden meals and also for what preparation of meals, etc., can be carried on in the porch. It is just as easy to shell the peas, slice the beans, and clean the silver in the fresh air, and far more comfortable for the housewife on a hot day. If she has a table of this nature, with legs which can be unscrewed and fixed again in place in a few seconds, she can quickly transport her work to the garden area.

Then, again, a two-tiered service wagon is a great service, both for carrying the food, etc., from house to garden dining spot and for conveying one's work and play treasures from one point to another.

Every household, too, will appreciate the little ice-making machine, in which three solid blocks of ice can be manufactured from flasks of water in seven minutes. The flasks are placed in a container and surrounded with water containing certain chemicals, a handle is turned, and at the end of the seven minutes there is the ice for use in the kitchen, etc. The same apparatus will make icecream!

Where electricity is available the new iceless refrigerator is a great boon. With the use of this system the temperature is maintained twelve degrees colder than ice, and food will keep in perfect condition. As well as keeping the food cool, this refrigerator will freeze ice-creams and make ice-blocks as desired. It can be run from any electric point for a few pence per day, and is an excellent invention.

A very useful as well as novel piece of equipment is the bunk bed, which, as its name implies, is made on the bunk principle. Two comfortable spring beds are fitted one over the other on a strong oak frame. For the porch bedroom or for use in the summer bungalow where space is limited this device is most useful, as it is, indeed, in any small bedroom which has to be shared by two people.

These are but a few of the clever appliances which are a considerable aid to summer housekeeping. MARY GWYNNE HOWELL.

CANADIAN WATER-POWER.

INDUSTRIAL AND HOUSEHOLD USES.

OTTAWA (By Mail.)

The newspaper reader is familiar with the statistical information dealing with the generation of hydro-electric energy, but tabulated figures, except for reference purposes, can convey no idea of what it represents to a country that is abundantly supplied by nature with this "white fuel," as it has been so aptly named.

Canada has at the present day 3,600,000 h.p. of water-power in actual operation, and, taking as a basis the minimum flow of water at any period of the year, there is at least another 18,000,000 h.p. waiting to be developed, although many estimates place the amount at twice this figure, and even higher. There has always been a certain surplus, and where this occurs near the United States border it has been customary to export it for the use of American manufacturers and others.

The first step towards building up Canadian industries, by checking the outward flow of power, was the imposition of an export tax. This was followed by an embargo on exports under contract for periods of more than one year, though contracts for less than one year may be made with the consent of the Province in which the power is generated.

The advantages of this wealth of water-power are obvious. Industries are not dependent on coalfields for their power, and there is thus no necessity for crowding all the industries into restricted areas; the manufacturer selects a site adjacent to his market, not to his source of power, for the latter is brought to his door; and if he is opening up virgin territory, the town or village he selects will offer him inducements to open his works there, since he will bring prosperity with him. Instead of having to pay fabulous sums for the land required, it will probably be given to him gratis, or for a nominal sum. This reduces his overhead costs. The workers find their money will buy them more in a small town than in a large city; rents are lower; food is cheaper; education and the general upbringing of children are simpler and better in the healthy surroundings.

In addition to the above benefits the power is far and away cheaper and more efficient than coal.

The same applies to its household use. Electric appliances are every day taking the place of methods used by our forefathers. Women no longer need toil over the washtub, for the electric washer has obviated the necessity; cooking, heating, cooling by fans, and many other devices, replace the old methods. Electricity has partially, at least, emancipated Canadian women from the thraldom of household drudgery.—(Reuter.)

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

HARDENING OF DISCOUNT RATES.

There was the usual Saturday ease in Lombard street so far as day-to-day money was concerned, which was offered at 3½ down to 3¼ p.c., but in view of the approaching holiday demands and the ingathering of the half-yearly revenue the charge for fixtures remained at 3½ p.c.

Discounts were firm under the influence of dearer money prospects, coupled with Friday's fall in the New York exchange. Three months' fine bills were offered at 4⅛-4¼ p.c., and fours were quoted at 4¼-4⅛ p.c. There were sellers of Friday's Treasuries at 4¼ p.c. to a shade over.

The market for bar silver was very quiet, and quotations were lower in the absence of business. Both the spot and forward prices declined ⅛d. to 31⅛d. and 31⅛d. per oz. respectively. The market price of gold remained at 84s. 10½d. per fine oz. The Bank of England announced that there were no bullion operations on foreign account.

A moderate recovery to 4.85¼ took place in the American exchange. European currencies did not move much, but in several cases they were slightly better. Roumanian lei, Greek drachmae and Polish zlotys reacted somewhat in sterling value, and Holland moved more favourably to this country, the same remark applying to Germany and Austria. The French exchange rate declined to below 102.90, and Belgian francs were worth a trifle more at 105.10, while pesetas, lire and Norwegian and Danish kroner were all better. About the only alteration in the South American group was a decline in Brazilian milreis.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

THE OUTLOOK.

Despite the latest phase of the coal situation, it would not be safe to assume that we are yet out of the wood of industrial difficulties. As Sir Frederick Lewis showed in his speech at the Furness Withy meeting, a general effort to reduce costs is essential. Above all, it is necessary to reduce the enormous amount payable annually in interest on the National Debt, and for this reason we (Sunday Times) should welcome a lower Bank rate, which would render conditions favourable for the conversion of War Loan 5 per cent. Stock into a less expensive form of borrowing. If this becomes possible the return to the gold standard will have been amply justified. Meanwhile, the growing strength of the Bank's position points to a continuance of the upward movement in gilt-edged Stocks. Rubber shares still offer the best opportunities for speculative investment, the refusal of the Government to interfere with the restriction scheme signifying that profitable working conditions may be expected to prevail. It is advisable, nevertheless, to base estimates of profits on a lower price for the commodity than at present ruling, and in selecting shares to consider how far prospects within a reasonable period have already been discounted.

THE CRUDE OIL POSITION.

Supplies of crude oil in America have trended downwards since the end of May, although there appear to be possibilities of some recovery in outputs from the Oklahoma and Californian fields in a few months, judging by recent drilling operations. For the time being, the heavy oil production from Smackover, Arkansas, has fallen off, although certain new sands have yet to give up their secrets, and it is believed that vast possibilities still exist. This Arkansas oil is mostly heavy, it is true, and so is not primarily suitable for obtaining petrol by the usual methods, but such oils begin to have more interest for the refiner as cracking practice progresses. Still, it is apparent that the supply of the relatively light crude oils is advancing little, if at all, in most districts. The full official figures for May show that, while the daily production of oil of 24 gravity and higher fell by 16,694 barrels when compared with April, the daily production of oil heavier than 24 degrees was 165,994 barrels higher than in April. Into the former category fell a total daily production of 1,491,839 barrels, and into the latter there fell a total daily production of 705,161 barrels, so that about two-thirds of the daily average of 2,196,000 barrels in all falls into the category of light oil. For Arkansas alone the daily production rose from 181,734 barrels in April to 323,613 barrels in May, which more than accounts for the rise in production shown by the whole country.

RADIO CORPORATION.

The Radio Corporation has reported the first deficit in its history, the last quarter's earnings showing a net loss of $391,000, compared with a net profit of almost $2,000,000 in the March quarter. The price-cutting of rival companies is considered to be the chief cause of the decline, the Radio Corporation having refused to lower its prices. The company's gross income for the June quarter was approximately $4,584,000, compared with $15,000,000 for the March quarter. Seasonal conditions are also regarded as partly responsible for the unfavourable results.

IRISH TRADE TREATY.

A Berlin telegram states that preparatory work for a German-Irish Trade Treaty are well advanced, and discussions will be taken up immediately the Anglo-German Trade Treaty is ratified.

GAS LIGHT AND COKE DIVIDEND.

The Gas Light and Coke Company is paying the same dividend for the past half-year as for the two previous periods—viz., £2 13s. 4d. per cent. This seems to have occasioned some surprise in view of the company's announcement a month ago that the price of gas would be lowered, and with it the dividend to shareholders, but the change affects the current and not the last six months.

NEW RUBBER COMPANY.

The Buloh River Rubber Estates, Limited, has been registered with a capital of £80,000 in shares of £1 each. The company will acquire an estate situated in South Johore, consisting of 1,550 acres planted with rubber, the management of which will be undertaken by the Rubber Estate Agency, Limited. We understand that there will be no public issue, but that application will be made to the Stock Exchange Committee for permission to deal in the shares.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LIVERPOOL COTTON—American futures—In response to the overnight improvement in New York, values here opened about 3 to 4 points higher, and further advanced afterwards on trade calling. At the close the tone remained firm, but business was only on a very small scale. Values finished about 13 to 14 points up on the day. Egyptian quiet; current month closed 30 and August 10 points lower, while other months were unchanged.

LEICESTER WOOL.—Business is very slack in the hosiery factories, and the autumn trade is almost non-existent, a remarkable situation for this time of the year, when all the orders ought to be in hand. If a sudden cold snap came on early there would be no stock anywhere. Artificial silk branches report continued good trade. There are threats of a strike in the textile trade, which would affect the price of yarn, and the confidence aroused by the arrival at a basic price has once again been shaken. Altogether the outlook is not good.

MANCHESTER PROVISION MARKET.

(FROM OUR COMMERCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

With the exception, perhaps, of bacon, arrivals of all descriptions of Danish and Swedish produce have been well up to the average, and there is a stronger undercurrent to note in all departments of the provision trade. Butter prices have advanced sharply since last week-end, and there is no doubt the decreased make of fresh English is stimulating the demand for Scandinavian makes. Irish creameries are not quite so plentiful in this centre, and merchants report a better demand for this description, really "class" qualities clearing readily, and there is more movement for other descriptions. In bacon, while advances have been made in Danish and Dutch of 4s., and Swedish of 5s. per cwt., no official change was made in Irish, and some factors appeared to be sceptical as to whether the higher prices would be made. Holidays in Lancashire are now in "full swing," and it is no exaggeration to say that during the "wakes" season many towns, especially those connected with the textile trade, are practically empty, and under these circumstances, with present travelling facilities, holiday makers are going further afield—even to the Continent, and this consequently restricts demand to a marked extent. Lard rules slow, but there appears to be little giving way in prices. While all descriptions of cheese rule firm on spot, there is some easing in the price of Cheshire in the country, the hot weather, no doubt, having a very detrimental effect on stock in hand. Eggs rather quieter, but for all descriptions the feeling is fairly steady. During the month of June some small increase was reported in shipments from the Irish Free State.

At Salford cattle market last Tuesday business was extremely slow in all departments, and it is doubtful if a clearance was effected. Buyers showed little inclination to operate, except for immediate requirements, and then for choice light-weights only, heavy fat cattle and sheep being more or less a drug on the market. Prices all round were fully 1d. per lb. lower. At the Manchester Dead Meat market there was a very slow feeling at the close, and buying could only be described as of a hand-to-mouth character, both for home killed and imported. As can be fully understood, pigs are in poor demand, but taken all round recent levels are about maintained owing to the smaller numbers coming forward.

So far as dead poultry are concerned, there is rather more movement, but there is little demand, except for best grades of chickens and ducklings.

TROPICAL PRODUCE STEADY.

(FROM OUR COMMERCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

LIVERPOOL, Saturday.

Business in the tropical produce market has been fairly steady, with prices of the chief commodities well held. Palm oil in the early part of the week was eagerly sought and prices hardened considerably. Once the demand, however, had been met, buyers showed an inclination to restrict business, with the result prices slipped back slightly from their best. Lagos and soft oils on spot and near at hand appreciated fully 12s. 6d. per ton, but mediums and hards show little or no alteration. Forward positions of Lagos and softs compared with spot can now be bought at a slight discount, but for mediums a premium of, roughly, 3s. 9d. is obtainable for August-September shipment material. Hard oils for the same positions command a premium of 5s. per ton. Business during the week is estimated at 2,200 tons, with Lagos quoted £41 10s. and Nig. £41. An announcement of great importance to dealers in palm oil was made known during the week to the effect that no premium will be charged for oil taken in transit on and after July 1.

Palm kernels have been firm throughout, though prices towards the close eased off slightly. Still, the advance on the week is, roughly, 7s. 6d. per ton. Near to hand material still rules short, and August arrivals command a premium of 5s. per ton, compared with later months. August-October shipment material, after changing hands freely at £22 7s. 6d., can now be obtained at 2s. 6d. a ton less, with secondhands offered at £22 1s. 3d. Hull consumers have been active, buyers of June-July shipment at around £22 5s., with July-August 1s. 3d. per ton, less money. Hamburg has also shown more enterprise, and business has been reported in Jun.-July to August-September at around £22 5s.

Copra has fluctuated somewhat, but, on the whole, the market has been more active than for some time past, with values, after being from 5s. to 6s. 3d. dearer on the week, showing little or no change. Shippers in the East still command high prices. Business with Marseilles has been well maintained, with Federated Malay Straits commanding £29 17s. 6d. for July-August shipment. The same months to Rotterdam have been dealt in at £30.

In the ground nuts section prices have eased somewhat, after being harder for some time. Decorticated Nigerian afloat to Northern Continental ports has changed hands up to £22 7s. 6d. for July-August shipment, with August-September from 3s. 9d. to 5s. per ton more. Refined oils steady, without change in values, while nut oils have met with slightly better inquiry.

If the continuance of a particular industry which is an uneconomic industry is essential to the State, then it may be necessary to continue it by keeping it alive, on oxygen or in some other way.—Mr. H. P. Macmillan, K.C. (Coal Inquiry).

LAWN TENNIS.

FRANCE SUPREME.

PROSPECTS FOR THE FINAL.

BY F. GORDON LOWE.

France, as was expected, have now won the right to proceed to America by their defeat of Holland in the final of the European section of the Davis Cup. In winning this tie they did not lose a match, although Lacoste lost the first set in his game with Timmer, and had to fight hard for the second. In the doubles, Diemer Kool and Van Lennep took the third set from Lacoste and Brugnon. France will send over to the States the same team as last year, Lacoste, Borotra, and Brugnon, but they are all three better players than they were then, with the additional confidence that their many triumphs at Wimbledon must have brought. There are many who think that they should have a good chance against Australia in the final round, assuming that the latter country beats either Spain or Japan. The Frenchmen, however, are likely to find Anderson under the faster American conditions a very different man from the one they encountered at Wimbledon. Borotra, on the other hand, does not control the American ball, owing to the extra ground work that it entails, as well as he does the one in use at Wimbledon.

The winners of this important match will still find the American team a very tough one in the challenge round. Tilden, from all accounts, is playing his usual great game. His two recent victories in straight sets over Vincent Richards, in an exhibition match at Forest Hills, and in the final of the Metropolitan Tournament, fully prove this. Richards, who is ranked No. 2 to Tilden, has in the opinion of the best judges not found his true form yet. It is therefore conceivable that Johnston may regain the place in the American team as the second Singles player which he lost last year. Tilden at his best is quite capable of winning any Davis Cup match off his own racket. For the last three years he has represented America in both the Singles and Doubles, and only lost one match during that period, when he and Vincent Richards were beaten by Patterson and O'Hara Wood in 1922.

TEAM SELECTION.

While on the subject of Davis Cup teams, one cannot help regretting that our selectors do not make up their minds about the personnel of a team some time beforehand. All our men knew that their selection for the match against France at Eastbourne was dependent on how they did at Wimbledon. My contention is that a man should not be judged on the result of one match alone, and that all our players would have done better in the championships, especially Gilbert, if those selected for the match in question had been notified before the meeting. With this anxiety lifted from their minds, they could then let themselves go in a way they would not otherwise have done. The same thing applies to the selection of the ladies' team for America. Indeed, Miss Colyer's match with Miss Harvey was a good instance of the kind of tennis one might expect from two ladies who were not sure of their places. After Turnbull's match with Lacoste at Eastbourne the Englishman felt certain that if more opportunities were given to our men of meeting the Frenchmen the disparity of play between the two nations would gradually disappear. The more one plays a man the more likely one is to get on level terms with him. Every possible opportunity should, therefore, be taken by our L.T.A. of sending over young men to France to compete in any events that are going on over there.

GOLF AND LAWN TENNIS.

The most astounding piece of news this week was that Cyril Tolley, the famous golfer, was going to take up lawn tennis seriously. I should have thought that the golfing world could ill spare him, for they, like lawn tennis players, have not been having it all their own way with foreign competition of late. There have been many instances of lawn tennis players taking up golf and becoming fairly proficient at it. One can call to mind such men as H. L. Doherty, Norman Brookes, Hillyard, M. Woosnam, and many others who have done this. Miss Lottie Dodd created a record by winning the golf championship after she had secured similar honours at lawn tennis. Going from golf to tennis is, however, a difficult matter, I should imagine. The great trouble would be that years of golf would tend to make one slow on a tennis court, and the latter game is essentially one of mobility. Added to this, Tolley is naturally a heavy man, and inclined to be slow. At the present time this famous golfer is one of the best players at the Melbury Club, where W. C. Crawley is also a member. Therefore, if Tolley is to improve he will have to seek other surroundings, where he is likely to find more players likely to bring him on. Tolley is nothing if not a hard hitter. Indeed, he possesses even now quite a good service, but his other strokes are erratic. He will find that the road to championship honours is, as he is probably aware, a long one. Tolley's present form would barely admit him to the lists at Wimbledon, but all will wish him luck in his new venture.

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIPS.

The centralisation of the county championships, which finished on Saturday, is a new experiment, in which L. A. Godfree has been one of the prime movers. The championship is now settled in a week instead of being spread out over the whole summer. England has been divided into six groups, each containing five or six counties. The groups are numbered in order of merit, the bottom county of No. 1 going down to Group 2 next season, and the leader from No. 2 coming up, and so on, rather on the Football League system. The idea is a good one, and brings the chief players in each county together so that they may have a week of hard doubles. It is hoped that the new system may be the means of discovering and bringing on young county talent. There is something to be said, however, for the old method, when one day was given up for each match. A man will, perhaps, take a day off when he would rather not devote a whole week to doubles alone in preference to the more varied lawn tennis which a tournament would provide. Then, again, we must not concentrate too strongly on doubles as opposed to singles, for there are four singles in a Davis Cup match to the one doubles. If the competition is to serve a useful purpose, singles matches should certainly be introduced next year.

SCOTLAND.

Congratulations to that sound and thoughtful player, A. Blair, for winning the Scottish Championship last week at Edinburgh. This was the first occasion, since MacKay won in 1907, that a true Scotsman has won the event. Other records were also set up, for Blair is the first man from the West to win the Championship since its inauguration in 1878, and no other player before Blair has held the Scottish Hard Court Championship and this one at the same time. Blair had to play his best to beat Dr. Elliott, who had previously put out Stott in the semi-final, for Elliott was serving and smashing well. In the final the winner beat Mackintosh, chiefly by playing a good length ball. Blair counteracted the heavily topped stroke of the latter by a variation of cut and top, and, on occasion, made good use of the lob. Miss Thom retained her title in the ladies' event, but Mrs. Robin Welsh, who is, perhaps, the best known of the Scottish ladies, has apparently given up the singles game. Mrs. Welsh, however, showed that she is still the clever player of old by winning the Mixed Doubles with Dr. Elliott. Terrey, the Australian, was the only visitor of merit to the meeting. His game of steady return is one that is calculated to upset many players if they are not quite up to form.

HANDBALL.

DR. HARTY CUP AND LEINSTER CHAMPIONSHIP.

At a meeting of the Leinster (G.A.A.) Handball Council, held on Saturday night, Mr. A. C. Harty presiding, the draws for the Leinster Championship resulted as follows:—

Singles (Hard and Soft).—A—Kildare v. Kilkenny. B—Carlow v. Leix. C—Offaly v. Wicklow. D—Dublin v. Meath.

First round will be played in court of first-named on August 23; winner of A v B, and winner of C v. D on August 30; final on September 6.

The Dr. Harty Cup will be the hard ball championship.

Doubles (Hard Ball)—Dublin v. Meath, Leix v. Wicklow, Kilkenny v. Offaly, Kildare v. Carlow.

Inter-County (team of six).—Dublin v. Wicklow, Carlow v. Kilkenny, Meath v. Kildare, Offaly v. Leix.

The second half of Kilkenny v. Dublin match was fixed for August 16.

The Civic Guard court was occupied over the week-end by inter-club contests in different grades for the City and County Dublin Championships. The senior inter-club match between Civic Guards and Metropolitans, fixed for yesterday, was not played.

In the junior inter-club match between St. Catherine's and Clontarf "B" only one match was played, as the latter club had only three players present. This was won by St. Catherine's, which gave them full points. Details:—

J. Fogarty and M. Hill (St. C.) beat S. O'Hanlon and B. Smith (Clontarf)—21-5, 21-16. P. Austin and D. Conlon (St. C.) beat W. Moore and T. Carroll (C.)—21-9, 21-15.

In the inter-club junior hard ball contest between G.H.Q. and Clontarf "A" some good play was witnessed, although the tossing was very difficult.

Clontarf "A" beat G.H.Q., two matches to one; C. M'Mahon and T. Carroll (Clontarf) beat Privates P. Scanlan and J. Keaveney (G.H.Q.)—21-15, 21-2;

T. Hughes and P. Broughal (C.) beat Privates Mullins and Duffy (G.H.Q.)—21-13, 21-19.

Privates P. Scanlan and Sullivan (G.H.Q.) beat J. Tobin and F. Quigley (C.)—9-21, 21-6, 21-4.

Clondalkin was occupied with singles championship over the week-end, J. Dowdall defeating L. Gavin by 21-17, 21-11, 21-8, 11-21, 21-7.

BOWLING.

VISITORS v. KENILWORTH.

The Kenilworth Bowling Club, in conjunction with the Leinster Lawn Tennis Club, were at home to their friends on Saturday afternoon at their well kept green at Grosvenor square, Rathmines. In the absence of a competing club team of visitors, the three other bowling clubs in the Dublin district generously provided a joint team of bowlers to assist the home club in their programme for the afternoon. The Clontarf Club sent three rinks, the Blackrock Club two rinks, and the Leinster Club one rink. Under these circumstances the game was not seriously contested by the visitors, and indeed on only two rinks was there any notable play. On No. 1 rink, Boyd, of Clontarf, put up a splendid fight against Harper, of Kenilworth, the latter at the finish being only two up on the Clontarf player. On rink No. 6, Thomson (Leinster) ran Ingram (Kenilworth) a close game up to the end, when Ingram got in front, and finished with a score of 19, as against Thomson's 14. The game resulted in a victory for the home club.

LIVERPOOL MEAT IMPORTS.

During the past week six steamers landed cattle and fresh meat at Liverpool from the various North and South American ports. There were no arrivals from Australasia. The vessels, with their freights, were as follows:—The Montrose, from Montreal, with 2,912 boxes of meat; the Canada, from Montreal, with 1,818 boxes of meat; the Cordillera, from the River Plate, with 26,985 sheep and lamb carcases, 200 sides of veal, 1,991 bags, etc., of meat and 40,756 quarters of beef; the Corrientes, from Montreal, with 855 boxes, etc., of meat; the Celtic, from New York, with 45 boxes of pork and 260 boxes of meat; and the Welshman, from Montreal, with 852 cattle—making a total of 852 cattle, 26,985 sheep and lamb carcases, 200 sides of veal, 7,756 boxes, etc., of meat, and 40,756 quarters of beef. Compared with the arrivals of the preceding week, these figures show an increase of 11,674 sheep and lamb carcases and a decrease of 619 cattle, 2,568 boxes of meat and 20,684 quarters of beef.

DUBLIN'S CLOSED COALYARDS.

MEETING OF OWNERS TO-DAY.

It is understood that the Dublin coal merchants will meet to-day to consider a communication from the Dublin Trades Council in relation to the dispute which led to the closing down of the coalyards in the city. The situation remained unchanged up to Saturday, but a more hopeful view was taken of it in local labour circles.

THE HOTELS.

Following the withdrawal of the strike notices, the city hotel and restaurant workers were happily at work on Saturday, and are looking forward to a busy time during the Horse Show week.

THE MUSICIANS.

While the situation in connection with the theatre and cinema musicians and the managers remained unchanged on Saturday, it was stated that more applications had been received by the Theatre and Cinema Association from musicians than were necessary to fill the vacancies. Applicants who were former employés would be engaged, and the door was still open for the men to come back, but if they did not seek reinstatement on the old terms they would permanently be locked out. The vacancies would be filled in the next few days.

From another source came a denial that any members of the Musicians' Association had applied for reinstatement on the old terms.

I.R.A. EMIGRANTS.

REMARKABLE DOCUMENT SEIZED.

The Civic Guards at Kilkee, County Clare, have seized a number of documents which are supposed to have been issued by Republicans. One of them sets out the conditions on which a member of the Irish Republican Army may emigrate. An application must be sent to the "Adjutant-General" of the I.R.A., and must be accompanied by a declaration in the following terms:—

"I was forced to leave Ireland through extreme economic distress in order to obtain a livelihood. I wish to be enrolled on the Foreign Reserve List for a period of five years. I promise to return to Ireland at the end of that time if I do not obtain an extension and to abide by the conditions set out hereunder."

These conditions include willingness to submit to the same disciplinary code as active Volunteers; to save up the price of a return passage to Ireland and to keep it intact; to return immediately General Headquarters issues a direction to him; to keep Headquarters informed of his address; to increase his efficiency as a soldier whilst abroad; and to promote the interests of the Republic in every way.

This declaration has to be witnessed by a responsible officer of the I.R.A. acquainted with the intending emigrant, and then forwarded to the Adjutant-General. If the latter approves, the necessary application for passports, etc., may presumably be made through the Free State and other recognised authorities.

BURGLARIES IN DUBLIN.

NUMEROUS SEARCHES BY DETECTIVES.

Burglaries which have taken place in the Ballsbridge district of Dublin within the last ten days had a sequel at the end of last week, when members of the Dublin Detective Division recovered property valued at £500 and detained four men, who will probably be brought up in the Police Court to-day.

Detective Sergeant Crimmins, while on duty on the quays early on Friday morning, saw a man with an attaché case in a shop. He waited and questioned the man as he was leaving. Not satisfied with his replies, he brought him to College street station, and it is said that the attaché case contained silverware and other articles to the value of £200.

Afterwards Superintendent Ennis, Sergeant Crimmins and Detective Sergeant Dawson visited a shop in the city and seized property valued at £150. Another house in a different district was visited soon afterwards, and property which is said to be value for £50 was seized. Two other houses in the neighbourhood were also entered and possession taken of property found in them.

Later in the day a man who was found in the Westland row area was detained, and on Saturday morning, following the search of a house in the Pearse street area, a third man was detained. On Saturday evening a fourth man was brought to College street.

On Saturday night the detectives searched a house on the North side of the city and took possession of silverware, cutlery and other articles.

The detectives next drove into the County Dublin, and are said to have got possession of a quantity of jewellery, and on their return visited another house in the city and seized property which included a fur-lined coat.

Inquiries into the burglaries in Ballsbridge district, of which there were four within seven days, and into one on the North side of the city, are being conducted.

BLACK SCAB IN POTATOES.

THE NEED FOR PRECAUTIONS.

Black scab, otherwise known as wart disease or potato cancer, is the most serious disease that has threatened the Irish potato industry. The disease is most destructive, highly infectious, and once introduced persists in the soil for many years. The authorities in most countries have made stringent regulations to cope with black scab. Some years ago the United States of America prohibited absolutely the import of potatoes from countries where the disease had occurred, including Ireland, thereby closing a market which might have been a profitable outlet for Irish potatoes in years of high yields.

The disease is so infectious that to prevent its spread infected areas have to be treated somewhat in the same way as areas where foot-and-mouth disease of cattle is present. Movement of potatoes from infected to "clean" areas must be prevented and within infected areas only potatoes immune to the disease may be planted.

In spite of efforts to control it, black scab has spread extensively in Great Britain. In Ireland the disease is fortunately confined to a relatively small area, chiefly in Counties Down and Louth. Strenuous efforts have been made to control the disease. The Department have prohibited the planting in infected districts of varieties susceptible to the disease, as well as the movement out of the infected areas of any potatoes to other parts of the country. The importation of potatoes from other countries is also prohibited, save under licence, and no imports are admitted which might by chance be the means of introducing disease. It may be confidently asserted that but for these regulations the potato industry in this country would have been by now seriously jeopardised.

During recent years efforts are being made to improve the export trade of potatoes in the Saorstat, and to develop a seed trade. These efforts are doomed to failure unless black scab disease can be effectively controlled. Apart from this aspect of the matter, it will be realised that when the disease appears in a district all growers in that district have to conform to the drastic and vexatious regulations made to prevent the further spread of the disease.

Farmers are, therefore, asked to take every precaution against the risk of introducing black scab into their lands. They should make sure that any potatoes purchased come from districts where black scab has not occurred. Moreover, it is the duty of every farmer to report immediately any occurrence of the disease on his land or in his district; and to inform the proper authorities of any potatoes suspected to have them moved from infected areas.

TICKNOCK MURDER.

TAXI-DRIVER AND POLICE GIVE EVIDENCE.

THE LITTLE GREY CAR.

A further stage in the Ticknock murder charge was reached last Saturday, when additional witnesses gave evidence before Mr. Collins, K.C., in the Dublin District Court. The accused men are Leopold Dillon, formerly a Superintendent in the Civic Guard, whose address was given as Dunlavin; and Dr. Patrick Purcell, of Blessington, and the charge against them is that of the wilful murder, on the 9th June, of Lily O'Neill, otherwise known as "Honor Bright," whose body was found at Ticknock, near Dundrum, County Dublin. Both men pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Bewley (instructed by Mr. D. H. O'Flaherty, of the State Solicitors' Department), prosecuted. Mr. Joseph O'Connor, K.C., and Mr. Kingsmill Moore (instructed by Mr. J. H. McCarroll, Wicklow), appeared for Dr. Purcell, and Mr. James Geoghegan, K.C., and Mr. Eugene Sheehy (instructed by Mr. H. G. Donnelly, Athy), for Leopold Dillon.

At the hearing of the case on the previous Saturday evidence was produced to the effect that the accused men were seen in the company of the deceased girl and another girl early on the morning of the 9th June in Stephen's Green, Dublin, and that "Honor Bright" was seen driving round the Green with a man in a little grey motor car. She was later seen, it was then stated, to leave the grey car and get into a taxi.

TAXI DRIVER'S EVIDENCE.

The first witness called last Saturday was Ernest Woodroofe, a taxi owner, living at 121 Lower George's street, Kingstown, who said that he was in the habit of driving a taxi for hire in the city. Between 3 and 3.30 o'clock on the morning of the 9th June he was in Stephen's Green, and pulled up about sixty yards from the Shelbourne Hotel on the Merrion row side. He saw a grey two-seater car with two men in it, and there were two girls there, as far as he could see. He was about sixty yards from the grey car, which was stationary.

The men and the girls remained there for some time, and then one of the girls, whose name was O'Neill, and who, he heard, was called "Honor Bright," ran over to him. She went back to the two-seater, and then returned to him. He said: "What is wrong?" There was a conversation between him and the girl, and between the girl and the two men at the motor car. The girl got into his taxi cab, and he drove her away. One of the men in the grey car said that he would see her again, and she said, "All right."

Mr. Bewley—Have you seen either of these men since? Yes, only one of them.

Do you know now who that man was? That man there (pointing to Dr. Purcell.)

How was he dressed? He had a blue trench coat and soft hat.

IN HARRINGTON STREET.

The witness, continuing, said that he drove the girl through Merrion row, Baggot street, Adelaide road, and along Harrington street to the corner of Clanbrassil street, known as Doyle's Corner. He stopped there, and asked her for her fare. She got out, and stood at the corner. He drove back, and near the Camden street corner of Harrington street corner he met a motor car, resembling the grey two-seater which previously he had seen at Stephen's Green. There were two men in it, one of whom resembled the man he had already indicated. That man was driving, and had no hat. The car was going in the direction in which the witness had left the woman at Doyle's corner.

Cross-examined by Mr. O'Connor, the witness said that it was about 3.30 a.m. when he came round by the Shelbourne Hotel and saw the two girls standing, one at either side of the grey car. He had never seen either of the two men before that night, and they were then sixty yards away from him. He had identified the prisoner, Purcell, at a parade in the Bridewell that morning. The witness had been arrested on the 13th June, and was told by the police that he was being detained on suspicion of being concerned in the murder. During the period of his detention he made two statements, which he signed.

THREE IN A CAR.

A policeman (E 129) stated that between 3 and 4 o'clock on the morning of the 9th June he saw a two-seater car, stationary, on the Harold's Cross road, opposite No. 3 Waverley Villas. Two men and a woman were standing on the road between him and the car. One of the men was about six foot tall and was wearing a tight-fitting coat. This man had no hat or cap on. The other man was somewhat smaller. The young woman was speaking in a loud voice, but he did not hear what she said. The three people got into the car and drove off in the direction of Terenure. Witness, at an identification parade, saw a man who was like the taller man whom he had seen at Harold's Cross road.

Cross-examined by Mr. Geoghegan—He could not say for certain, at the identification parade, that it was the man. He at first said that he could not identify any man in the parade.

A BLUISH OVERCOAT.

Guard McCaffrey, stationed at Blessington, said that at about 4.30 on the morning of the 9th June he was aroused by a knock at the outer door of the barracks. He opened the door, and Dillon and Dr. Purcell came in. Both of them wanted witness to get them a glass of water, and Dillon asked him to get a motor bicycle which was in the shed at the back. He went for the bicycle, and when he came back with it the doctor had gone. Dillon tried to start the motor bicycle, but could not do so. Dillon remained in the barrack. The witness, on returning, found his own overcoat thrown on a seat in the day-room. He had not left it there himself, and had not had it since the evening before. He noticed stains on the coat, but did not know what they were. There were also little bits of briar leaves attached to it.

Inspector O'Connell stated that in Blessington a bluish overcoat was shown to him on the 16th June. There was a stain on the back, and in one of the pockets he found a little piece of briar. Some briar leaves were adhering to the coat. He visited the place where, it was pointed out to him, the body was found. The bank towards which the feet of the body were pointing when the body was found was composed of briar heads, some of which were fresh, and some not.

SEEN THROUGH WINDOW.

Guard Patrick O'Sullivan, stationed at Blessington, stated that between 4.30 and 5 o'clock on the morning of the 9th June he looked out through the window of his bedroom in the barracks, and saw Dr. Purcell and Superintendent Dillon in a two-seater motor car coming from the direction of Dublin. The car stopped at the door of the barracks, and the doctor and Superintendent went into the barracks, where they remained for about five minutes, and then went outside to the car. The doctor got into the car and drove towards his own house.

Mr. Bewley said that he did not intend to go any further that day, and asked for a remand until Thursday.

The accused men were remanded until 2 o'clock next Thursday.

MOTOR CYCLE ACCIDENT.

YOUNG DUBLIN MAN INJURED.

Mr. E. G. Barnes, aged 20, of Eaton square, Terenure, was seriously injured through a collision between his motor cycle and a pony trap at the Cross roads, Ballycarry, County Antrim, on Friday morning last. Mr. Barnes was thrown from his motor cycle and was found to be unconscious. He was taken to Larne Hospital. On Saturday he had not recovered consciousness. It is believed that the base of his skull has been fractured. The occupants of the pony trap, Mr. John A. Leighton, aged 80, a well-known Belfast solicitor, and his servant, Mr. Thomas Cameron, aged 70, were also injured. Mr. Barnes was touring Ulster on his motor cycle. He has been identified through a postcard in his pocket requesting him to attend a meeting of the Rathmines Young Men's Christian Association.

NEWRY CATHEDRAL CONSECRATION.

NINTEEEN BISHOPS AT CEREMONIES.

From Our Special Correspondent.

NEWRY, Sunday.

Nineteen bishops of the Roman Catholic Church took part to-day in the solemn celebration of Pontifical High Mass in connection with the consecration on last Tuesday of the Cathedral of Saints Patrick and Colman, Newry, formerly St. Patrick's Pro-Cathedral.

The town was en fête for the occasion; flags were hung in every street, while at the entrance to the Cathedral the Papal colours were displayed. Several processions, accompanied by bands, marched through the streets before the ceremony, which was attended by a very large congregation of the clergy and laity.

The foundation stone of the Cathedral was laid by the Most Rev. Dr. Hugh O'Kelly, Bishop of Dromore, in June, 1825, and the dedication of the church as St. Patrick's Pro-Cathedral took place four years later. Extension work was carried out by the late Bishop McGivern and the late Bishop O'Neill, and subsequently a great burden of debt was removed owing to the efforts of the present Bishop of Dromore, the Most Rev. Dr. Mulhern, whose purchase of the head rents left the church free of encumbrances, thus preparing the way for its consecration as a Cathedral.

BISHOPS PRESENT.

The Mass was celebrated by the Most Rev. Dr. O'Doherty, Bishop of Galway, and the Most Rev. Dr. Mulhern, Bishop of Dromore, occupied the throne.

The other bishops in attendance were:—The Most Rev. Dr. O'Donnell, Archbishop of Armagh and Primate of All Ireland; the Most Rev. Dr. Byrne, Archbishop of Dublin and Primate of Ireland; the Most Rev. Dr. Glennon, Archbishop of St. Louis, U.S.A.; the Most Rev. Dr. O'Doherty, Archbishop of Manila; the Most Rev. Dr. Browne, Bishop of Cloyne; the Most Rev. Dr. Hoare, Bishop of Ardagh; the Most Rev. Dr. Foley, Bishop of Kildare and Leighlin; the Most Rev. Dr. Fogarty, Bishop of Killaloe; the Most Rev. Dr. M'Kenna, Bishop of Clogher; the Most Rev. Dr. McRory, Bishop of Down and Connor; the Most Rev. Dr. MacNeely, Bishop of Raphoe; Most Rev. Dr. Keane, Bishop of Limerick; the Most Rev. Dr. Cantwell, Bishop of Los Angeles, California; the Most Rev. Dr. Graham, Bishop-Auxiliary, Edinburgh; the Most Rev. Dr. M'Ginley, Bishop of the Philippine Islands; the Most Rev. Dr. Carroll, Bishop of Lismore, Australia; and the Most Rev. Dr. Gorman, C.S.Sp., Bishop of Sierra Leone.

THE SERMON.

The special sermon was preached by the Bishop of Raphoe (Dr. MacNeely). He said that the occasion was one of rejoicing not only for the Diocese of Dromore, but also for the whole Irish Church. Just a century ago the great Dr. James Doyle, Bishop of Kildare and Leighlin, came to preach at the opening of the church. It was a great day for Newry, but the people did not live to see what they of the present had seen—the day of the solemn consecration of this grand cathedral. The Bishop and people of the diocese were to be congratulated on the holy consummation of their labours.

They should ask themselves that day did they love their churches? Were they filled with holy zeal for their care, upkeep, and embellishment? Well might he ask: Was not the church the home of the parish, the haven of rest, and the harbour of peace? In a word, the church was a little world apart, where they were removed from material things. It was a place where all was ennobling and uplifting, and where the sense of nearness to God was felt by all.

The clergy in the sanctuary included:—Dean Quinn, P.P., V.G., Dungannon; Monsignor O'Doherty, Rector of the Irish College, Salamanca; Canon O'Reilly, P.P., Rostrevor; Monsignor McCarthy, California; Archdeacon Langan, D.D., P.P., Moate; Archdeacon Segrave, Drogheda; Dr. Blowick, Superior, Maynooth Mission to China; the Very Rev. Philip O'Doherty, P.P., V.F., Omagh; Canon McGrath, President, St. McCartan's, Monaghan; the Very Rev. John P. Campbell, C.M., St. Patrick's College, Armagh; the Very Rev. Father Mark, C.P., Holy Cross, Ardoyne; the Very Rev. B. Laverty, P.P., V.F., Kilkeel; the Very Rev. B. Murphy, P.P., V.F., Ballycastle; Canon Lyons, Ardee; the Rev. E. H. Collins, O.P., Prior, St. Catherine's, Newry; Monsignor O'Doherty, Irish College, Rome; Canon Maguire, D.D., Carrick; the Very Rev. Father Peter, O.S.F.C., Provincial, Church street, Dublin; Monsignor O'Doherty, P.P., V.G., Strabane; Canon Sheerin, Crossmaglen; the Rev. D. J. McWilliams, P.P., Newcastle; Canon Valley, Loughgilly; the Rev. Peter Dwyer, S.J.; the Rev. J. A. Calter, S.J.; the Very Rev. F. O'Rourke, C.S.Sp., Dundalk; the Rev. T. McGrath, P.P., Saval; the Very Rev. John Tierney, P.P., Enniskillen; the Rev. D. McAlister, P.P., Warrenpoint; the Rev. A. McArdle, S.J., Dublin; the Very Rev. T. Fahy, S.J., Provincial, Gardiner street, Dublin; the Rev. Eugene Clarke, P.P., Forkhill; the Rev. E. McPalin, P.P., Magheraline; and the Rev. B. McWilliams, P.P., Culdaff.

THE ASCENT OF CROAGH PATRICK.

PILGRIMS DRENCHED BY HEAVY RAINFALL.

Yesterday was the occasion of the annual pilgrimage to the summit of Croagh Patrick, the rugged mountain peak on the Mayo coast overlooking Clew Bay. Rain fell at intervals during the night, but from six in the morning it poured incessantly, and those who completed the climb to the summit after that hour were drenched. Large numbers who had travelled long distances remained at Westport all day, and made no attempt to complete the journey.

About four hundred people arrived by the special train from the Broadstone terminus on Saturday evening, and a good many also travelled on the night mail. Eight special trains reached Westport yesterday, bringing pilgrims from wide areas in the West and the Midlands.

Close on a thousand people made the ascent of the mountain during the night, and received Holy Communion after the six o'clock Mass in the little church. From that hour until 12 noon twenty-four Masses were celebrated, each by a different clergyman. The twelve o'clock Mass was celebrated by Monsignor Walsh, V.G., Secretary to Archbishop Gilmartin. A sermon on the life of St. Patrick was preached at this Mass by the Very Rev. Dr. Browne, Maynooth. A sermon in Irish was preached by the Rev. Michael McKelvey, St. Finnan's College, Tuam.

In a letter to the Rev. P. Paterson, Administrator, [Wes]tport, the Most Rev. Dr. Gilmartin, Archbishop of Tuam, stated that he regretted that circumstances prevented him from joining in the pilgrimage. On some recent pilgrimages, he said, their prayers had been united for peace. On the present occasion, however, he was sure they would all join in thanksgiving to God for this great blessing, and for the recent magnificent weather, which had put heart and courage into the people.

AFTER FORTY YEARS.

REVIVAL OF FERMOY FLOWER SHOW.

After a lapse of at least forty years, the Fermoy Flower Show and Fête was revived last week, the experiment being quite successful. There were fifty-three classes, and the entries were so numerous that the judges, in a few instances, found it difficult to make their selections. In the flower section the exhibits were really splendid. The vegetable section also was very good, while the potatoes showed exceptional merit for the year.

In the flower section the principal prize-winners were Captain Brazier Creagh, Creagh Castle (chiefly sweet peas), and Mr. R. G. Annesley, Annesgrove. Mr. Annesley took the prizes in the potato class. For the best lettuce, Mrs. Bower, O'Rahilly row, secured the first place with three beautiful heads. Mr. R. O'Sullivan, Grange, had the best collection of vegetables.

It is hoped that the show will be held in the open next year.

ATHY HOSPITAL ARRANGEMENTS

Mr. C. H. O'Connor, Chairman of the Poor Law Commission; Sir Joseph Glynn, and Dr. Hennessy, T.D., visited the County Home, Athy, on Saturday and met a deputation on the subject of hospital arrangements.

ROLLS-ROYCE ANNOUNCEMENT.

An important announcement will be made by Messrs. Rolls-Royce, Limited, in our issue of to-morrow.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE IRISH LANGUAGE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—What has come over the people in the Free State that they do not see where their present policy of a Gaelic Ireland is leading them? Is there nobody in the twenty-six counties to tell them that the present scheme of intensive Irish will bring their educational system, such as it is, to chaos, ruin the prospects of their children and make Ireland a laughing-stock and a byword among the nations of the earth?

Who is at the bottom of all this perilous nonsense about compulsory Irish? Seek them out and send them about their business, or even pension them off on full pay if they cannot be got rid of otherwise.

Do the people realise that the mental capacity of any child is a strictly limited quantity and that if his mind be saturated with Irish, English, French, Mathematics or any subject whatsoever, his power to acquire other knowledge is to that extent limited and, therefore, his chances to get on in the world lessened?

I am not writing now without some knowledge of what I mean. Some years ago in Trinity College, Dublin, a few of us during the Long Vacation tried our hands at learning what I believe was for the majority, if not for the whole of us, an ancestral language. In the beginning things went on famously, and we went through the first little book like a house on fire. Every beginning is easy, says the Latin proverb, and so it was with Irish. In the second book difficulties began to multiply. Rules began more and more to take a secondary place in the scheme of things, and exceptions became more arbitrary and confusing. Our progress was like walking through glue, the class dropped off one by one, and we unanimously came to the conclusion that Irish according to the text books never was, and never could have been, a spoken language. It would have been beyond the wit of man to remember all the exceptions and irregularities. Moreover, we heard in the strictest confidence of one student who went to Arran to improve his Irish, but found to his dismay that nobody on the island could make head or tail of it. He could not understand the local speech, and the islanders either did not, or pretended they could not, understand the Dublin Irish.

I would ask the Irish people through your columns why they are putting a load on the necks of their children which neither they nor their fathers were able to bear. They were no fools: they discarded Irish, and they knew what they were doing. Irish may be interesting to the student of philology. As an Aryan language it has numerous affinities with English, Greek and Latin, but that does not justify the Free State Government in handicapping so cruelly and so needlessly the rising generation of the country in the fiercely competitive world race that lies before them.

A suspicion crosses my mind that the people who so loudly proclaim the benefits of Irish do not know very much of the language themselves. The Irish papers I get contain fewer and fewer records of speeches delivered in Irish, or even allusions to the few perfunctory sentences with which the enthusiastic speakers were wont to preface their remarks. Even the legislators do not seem to be making markedly rapid progress with the language. It strikes me that this pro-Irish attitude is not accompanied by excessive sincerity on the part of the advocates of an Irish Ireland. If I am right in this conjecture, it would seem as if the hollow and perfunctory character of the whole movement is obvious to everybody. The legislators are vicariously patriotic, and, while themselves not qualifying for the Fainne or any other distinctive hall-mark of Irish accomplishment, they are putting the burden of learning Irish on those feeble folk, children and teachers, who cannot resist its imposition, but can only emit spasmodic and intermittent groans of protest.

One word in conclusion. I have heard one speaker's argument for compulsory Irish. It was this—No language, no nationality: a distinctive language is the badge and label of nationhood. To this I reply—All nonsense. There are on the American Continent fourteen or fifteen separate and independent nations; perhaps more, as I am not sure of the political status in Central America; and these fourteen or fifteen nations have only three languages between them—English, Spanish and Portuguese. Yet one never hears a word about reviving the native dialects and patois. Any person who proposed such an idea would be regarded as just another kind of harmless crank.—Yours, etc.,

"PROFITABLE POULTRY."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—A few days ago, in a contemporary newspaper, I read that a certain Australian professor had been lecturing at Edinburgh, and is reported to have said that their poultry in Australia laid twice as many eggs per bird as do those of Great Britain, and that climate has very little to do with the output from those valuable layers.

He issued a challenge also to the effect that he was prepared to bring over a pen of birds and match them against any similar pen here. He wound up by stating that in the laying tests over there the pullets averaged 200 eggs per annum. This was the only real figure we have to go upon for comparison. I have not at hand the figures of the laying tests in England, but I fancy that the average there is very similar to those held in Ireland, somewhat lower, I think, owing to the larger numbers competing; but taking the average of the past few years of the laying tests held at the Munster Institute, Cork, and Stormont, Belfast, the average is over 200 eggs per bird per annum.

Last year at the Munster Institute the average was 189 eggs per bird for eleven months, 360 birds competing. A first-class certificate is awarded only for pens that average 200 eggs per bird for eleven months.

From this we may gather that Ireland can hold its own with the poultry of any country.

Very little prominence is given to the results of Irish laying tests, and the number of these tests is altogether inadequate for this country. It is doubtful if half the entries which will be sent in for the next contest can be accepted for lack of accommodation.

Beyond the initial expense, it costs the Government nothing to run such tests, because the value of eggs laid provides sufficient to cover cost of food, management and upkeep of plant.

Laying tests are to the poultry industry what horse show and horse racing are to the horse industry.

It must not be assumed, however, that the farmers of this country get these results; they lag far behind, although it is possible for all to keep hens which, in their first year, will lay 180 eggs if hatched in time and properly reared and housed; the second year birds will produce 25 per cent. less than this.

Under the heading of "Profitable Poultry" in your columns, readers bemoan the poor prices they were getting for eggs, yet a poultry-keepers' organisation is in existence which will secure for them to-day 18s. 4d. per ten dozen (wholesale) if they are new laid, of good size, and clean.

It is just this question of production and price that will determine whether poultry are profitable or not. All this can be improved if poultry-keepers will organise.—Yours, etc,

MOTOR CARS AND TAXES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—It was with very great disappointment that I read in your columns the recommendations re motor taxation as advanced by the Committee established for the purpose of investigating this matter. High import duty, high annual tax and bad roads has made many of my acquaintance and myself refrain from becoming possessed of motor cars; and, if one individual has this knowledge and experience, what must the aggregate number be who feel and have acted likewise up and down the twenty-six counties?

The Government rakes in a good deal of money from import tax on motor cars, and it also loses a good deal in different ways by the existence of this duty. Motor cars are now a necessity, and not just a matter of luxury or pleasure, and it ought to be the aim of all Governments to place articles necessary to the well-being of the citizens they govern in the hands of such citizens with the least possible amount of hardship. If I live in England I can buy a good, useful motor car for £300. If I dwell in the Free State the same car will cost me over £370, if of English manufacture, and a great deal more if of American or foreign make. We in Ireland are a comparatively poor people, and we will become poorer and poorer, because we are being ground into powder by taxation of all kinds, and I venture to say that unless some change takes place in the matter of taxation there will be many flittings from the shores of the Free State; but I am digressing from motor cars. The abolition or, at all events, a great reduction in import duty, a small graduated annual tax on all cars, and a carefully thought-out duty on petrol to meet the necessary revenue required is what is wanted.—Yours, etc.,

W. Finch.

THE

The Show of a Thousand Thrills

THE most romantic fighting figure of all time is surely the Cossack. Daring, dashing, irresistible Dogs of War, heroes and sons of heroes, born and bred to the use of arms and to deeds of daring horsemanship they have scored their name deep on the bloodstained pages of history. Cossack and steed are one invincible fighting unit—companions in arms, animated by a common spirit and a rare sympathy. Come and see them in the incredible and thrilling feats which brand them as the most astounding horsemen of all time. In the veins of the Cossack steed flows the blood of Kurdish stallions or horses of the finest Caucassian breeds and of Arabian mares brought into Europe by Tamerlane in bygone centuries.

SOME PRESS OPINIONS

The "DAILY MAIL" says:—"The Cossacks are as wonderful, as it was said they were going to be. . . . They piled thrill upon thrill. . . . They take away your breath; they are almost too much for your eyes. They must be seen to be believed."

The "EVENING NEWS" says:—"The memories of any thrills which the cowboys of last year's Rodeo may have caused will fade before the equestrian acrobatics of the Cossacks. The Cossacks perform their tricks much more easily, and with greater certainty than any other horsemen of this type."

The "DAILY EXPRESS" says:—"One of the most thrilling spectacles ever seen in London opened at Olympia last night. The riding feats of the Cowboys at Wembley were outdone by 260 lean, tough Cossacks."

"BEGGING."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—One wonders if the new police force in Dublin receives instruction in police duties as they are understood in other cities. In no other large town, either here or in England, is the same license extended to begging. It is practised in many guises, and of late has come from the usual haunts into the principal streets. A walk from the Nelson Pillar to the Bank of Ireland on almost any Sunday afternoon or evening is a humiliating experience for any citizen of Dublin.

Yesterday there were many cross-Channel and provincial visitors in the city, and this is what they saw. On the North side of the Pillar an unwashed fiddler "worked" the crowds waiting for north-bound trams. On the South side, where the crowds were larger, a gentleman with a dulcimer had a large audience. A short distance away two men with a barrel organ and another with a concertina collected coppers along the sidewalks. Under the Ballast Office a woman with a child in her arms solicited help from all that passed, while the other side of the street was held by a gentleman in a battered tall hat, who shook an equally disreputable bowler in the faces of pedestrians.

Picture house queues in the principal streets are regularly "worked" on Sunday evenings by ballad singers, male and female, who are usually accompanied by children, piccolo players, banjo players, and fiddlers. Surely, all this would not be allowed elsewhere. Another glaring instance of the license extended to these people is the presence daily for a fortnight past on the foot walk on O'Connell Bridge of a man with a fife, who collects coppers in a cap at his feet. This man "works" the crowds under the eyes of the three or four policemen who direct the traffic at this busy point.—Yours, etc.,

HISTORICAL INACCURACY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—Allow me to correct the misstatement of your Foreign Service Correspondent (Paris) which appears in your issue of 23rd inst., and says, referring to the recent litigation in the American Courts, that Jerome Napoleon, the ancestor of the American House of Bonaparte, was created King of Naples by his brother, Napoleon the Great. Napoleon I's brother-in-law, Joachim Murat, it was whom he made King of Naples and the Two Sicilies, and it will be remembered how he later lost his life through his temerity in returning to his kingdom after the Napoleonic downfall. Jerome, from whom the American family is descended through marriage with Miss Patterson, the American heiress, was not made King of Naples, but King of Westphalia, a newly-created kingdom originated by Napoleon, which lapsed on his overthrow.

The historical inaccuracy, which has come to you through Paris, I think, ought to be corrected, as it probably arose from a previous inaccurate historical statement when the case was cited in the American courts. Therefore, in the interests of future history, lest the mistake be adhered to in the United States, I do not think it ought to be now allowed to pass unchallenged.—Yours, etc.,

SHOOTING IN THE FREE STATE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—All that your correspondents say of Clare, Leitrim and Mayo is equally true of parts of Kerry. The reason for poaching is that it pays. Check the sale of poached game (and salmon) and nine-tenths of poaching will be scotched.

But there is another scourge, and I confess I cannot see any way of tackling him. He is the licensed wanderer, with well-trained dog, who shoots the mountain tops day after day, cleaning up every bird and ground game in his path. He sells the stuff and keeps himself going for the whole winter. Legally, nothing can be done to keep his shooting in reasonable bounds, because he can cover himself with all necessary permits and licences.

He is shooting down Ireland's breeding stock as ruthlessly as vermin or poachers can ever hope to do.—Yours, etc.,

THE POSTAL SERVICE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—I have had recently some very unpleasant experiences of postal inefficiency. On the 8th inst. I posted to a firm in London a letter, and to-day (23rd inst.) I have received a request for an answer to the communication sent to me by that firm early in the present month, which was contained in my letter forwarded three weeks ago.

On Monday last a member of my household posted a letter to a friend in the South of England, and to-day has had a letter expressing surprise that "you have not sent me a line about the urgent matter concerning which I wrote to you." I am not in a position to say where the blame lies for these two of many instances of irregularity in the post that might be mentioned; but the constantly recurring delays are very irritating, and make business exceedingly difficult.—Yours, etc.,

BATHING DANGERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—In view of the fact that so many hundreds of people are bathing along the coast, I think it only right to draw public attention to the fact that there is a great deal of sewage matter present in the sea and along the shore. The smell between Bootersttown and Salthill is particularly noticeable. It would be greatly in the general interest that the public health authorities' attention should be drawn to this serious menace to the health of the community, so that very serious results may not accrue from it, such as typhoid fever, diphtheria, etc. The wonder to me is that no one seems disturbed about it, due, I suppose, to our national indifference to anything that really matters.—Yours, etc.,

THE SENATE ELECTIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—May I ask through the medium of your paper where graduates of the Universities are to vote for the election of members of the Senate, seeing that their names are on the registers of the Universities for the election of members of the Dáil and not on the local registers? May I suggest that for our guidance a list of eighteen of the best candidates worthy of the honour be published, as we have never even heard the names of the majority of the candidates before and of none who have done anything worthy of aspiring to the honour of being a member of the Senate.—Yours, etc.,

HOUSING IN THE COUNTRY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—Many thousands of houses are likely to be erected within the next twenty years on the numerous small holdings, as well as labourers' plots, in the Free State, and it will add greatly to the beauty of our land if the architects concerned would take a pattern from some of the nice bungalow residences to be seen in many parts of the country. They are not a bit more expensive to build and are pleasing to the eye. Some of the hideous erections in the country are a blot on the landscape.—Yours, etc., "Countryman."

A HARD CASE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—In my parish lives the widow of a member of the R.I.C. She has eight small children. Her pension is £30 per annum. I have got money and clothing for her family from the Southern Irish Loyalists' Fund, otherwise they would have died of hunger and exposure. I cannot expect to get help everlastingly from this society.

Can nothing be done to persuade the Government to give these people enough to keep body and soul together?—Yours, etc.,

NELSON'S PILLAR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—I notice through your columns lately a movement on foot to remove this monument, owing to the congested state of the place. I am sure that thousands of the citizens would object to this piece of vandalism, especially as it is hardly needful, and would be another drain on our capital. My idea is, the congestion is caused by the cross-streets (Henry street and Earl street) with the tram terminus at the Pillar.

I think that this congestion can easily be remedied by moving the tram terminus to opposite Prince's street and Clery's, and, as there is no cross-street there, I do not think there will be congestion. I merely throw out the suggestion, and I hope that the City Fathers will consider it.—Yours, etc.,

ISLAND OF TRISTAN DA CUNHA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—This island in the South Atlantic has had no mails for three years or more. It is now arranged by the Government to send a mail from Cape Town in August. The mails will be taken by the s.s. Discovery, which is mentioned in your issue of this day as about to sail to South Georgia.

Parcels must reach the General Post Office, London, by the 5th of August. It would be a great kindness to the people in this lonely British island to send them some of the things which they have no means of procuring, except by the rare visit of some ship. Among these articles are soap, tea, coffee, cocoa, sugar, calico, prints, ribbon, etc. I take the items from a letter received to-day from the Rev. Mr. Rogers, who has been chaplain on the island for the last three years and is now in England. Letters or goods may be directed to Mrs. Repetto, or to Mr. Frederick Swain, Tristan da Cunha, care of G.P.O., London, E.C.—Yours, etc.,

SUBSCRIPTIONS AND APPEALS.

A REST HOME FOR NURSES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—It seems strange that, with all the philanthropic efforts expended in many directions, more has not been done for those members of society who do so much to relieve human suffering. The nursing sister, whose sympathetic and unselfish care has helped to restore to health many a sufferer, and has made the sick room brighter and happier, becomes, sometimes, in her turn, ill and tired. Then she needs a place where she can recoup her strength, take life easily and receive back some interest on all the care she has lavished on others.

It is in order to meet this want that the Irish Guild of Catholic Nurses are organising a scheme—to quote the words of the Committee—for establishing "a home for members of all branches of the profession, irrespective of religious denomination, which should be used in part for nurses permanently incapacitated from active work, and in part by nurses requiring a holiday of long or short duration."

To obtain funds for this purpose "Heather Days" are to be held in Dublin on Wednesday, Thursday, and Sunday, July 29th, 30th, and August 2nd.

It is hoped the public will respond to this appeal and use the occasion to pay back some of the debt they owe to the nursing profession.—Yours, etc.,

C. Drake.

MOTOR ACCIDENT NEAR ATHY.

CAPTAIN REDMOND'S ESCAPE.

Captain Redmond, T.D., and Captain Monks were driving in a motor car at Ballylinan on Friday evening last, when the front brakes jammed and the car was overturned. Captain Redmond was uninjured, but Captain Monks was pinned beneath the car and had his hand injured. He was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital, Dublin.

PRIZE DAY AT ARMAGH ROYAL SCHOOL.

THE PRIMATE ON CRICKET.

There was a large attendance at the annual distribution of prizes in the Royal School, Armagh, on Saturday. The Primate (Most Rev. Dr. D'Arcy) presided, and distributed the prizes.

The Headmaster (Mr. H. Hirsch, M.A.), in submitting his annual report, spoke of the uniform time-table imposed by the Ministry of Education, and said that he thought it a pity that they should all be obliged to work according to one pattern, irrespective of the circumstances of the school and of the class of boys attending it. To try to teach a subject and yet not allow sufficient time for it in the time-table was, in his opinion, entirely futile. This year had seen the end of the old Intermediate system, and last month they had their first leaving certificate examination. Whether this change would be beneficial or not, time would show.

The Primate congratulated the Headmaster on his excellent report. He said that he was particularly interested to notice that one of the pupils had been able to win high distinction in France, in old Provençal, in competition with French students. That showed how thoroughly well he had been instructed in the French language in the Royal School. He was also interested to see how well the school had been doing in games—that one of the members of the football club had been selected to play for Ulster, and that they had done even better at cricket. There was, in his opinion, no game which could compare with cricket. Fine even as football and other games were, cricket was the best game of all.

Recently a gentleman who had been headmaster of one of the greatest schools in England remarked to him that the boys of the present time were not as ready for adventure as the boys of the past. He could not agree with that, because, when they thought of such things as the climbing of Mount Everest, the wonderfully great number that went in for aviation, and the state of their roads filled with motor cars and motor cycles going at great speed, he thought that the present was an age of adventure as great as former ages. But every boy must remember that there was such a thing as safety first, and when they were thinking of doing something in the adventure of life they must think of the safety of other people.

The Primate then presented the prizes, and the proceedings were concluded with the singing of the National Anthem.

DR. SIGERSON'S ART COLLECTION.

The first catalogue of the forthcoming sale of the late Dr. George Sigerson's art collection is now published, and contains particulars of 163 lots of antique furniture and objets d'art; also a complete description of his unique collection of miniatures and bonbonnières. The collection consists mainly of portraits of French Royal personages, statesmen, soldiers, and Court beauties, and it illustrates a period extending from the reign of Henri Quatre (vide the portraits of Marie de Médici and Cardinal Richelieu) down to the nineteenth century. Many of the best French and English portrait miniature painters are represented. The arrangement is chronological in eight groups, as follows:—1. Henry IV. to Louis XV. 2. Louis XV to Louis XVI. (genre). 3. Louis XVI. 4. Louis XVI. (continued) 5. Revolution, Directory and Consulate. 6. Empire. 7. British and Irish, eighteenth century. 8. Restoration and nineteenth century.

The French furniture includes several objects of unusual importance, one of which has been illustrated in a well-known collectors' manual. A group of eighteenth century wax models of French and American personalities is of considerable historical interest.

The entire collection has been removed from Dr. Sigerson's residence, No. 3 Clare street, Dublin, for convenience of sale. Messrs. Battersby and Co., the well-known Dublin auctioneers, will conduct the sale in their auction galleries, 39 Westmoreland street, Dublin, on to-morrow (Tuesday) and following day.

Dr. Sigerson was a collector who trusted largely to his own excellent judgment. He was a great patron of art and literature, and almost everything in his house was collected by himself during many years of his residence in Dublin and his numerous visits to the Continent.

As a collector of pictures and engravings he was also well known, and these will be dispersed at a later date.

Industry and Agriculture.

President Cosgrave has a gift of concise expression, accompanied by a peculiarly direct style of speech, and we hope sincerely that many of the things which he said at Mullingar yesterday will be taken earnestly to heart by the Irish people. In the course of an interesting speech he deplored the decline in the support of Irish manufactures which has been noticeable during the last few years. When the "Irish Ireland" movement was a political weapon in the hands of the Sinn Fein Party people bought goods of Irish manufacture on principle, with the result that native industry received a stimulus which otherwise it never would have been likely to get. Since the achievement of the political aims of Sinn Fein, however, there has been a marked falling off in this respect. The ordinary economic law of supply and demand has come into play, and many of our manufacturers have found that they are unable to meet the competition of British and other competitors. One of the results of this discovery has been a strong movement in favour of protective tariffs, to which the Government has yielded in certain instances. It has instituted a series of import duties, the chief effect of which has been an increase in the cost of living. So far the benefit of these duties to Irish industry has failed to justify their imposition from the economic point of view, and the man in the street is beginning to realise that the Economic Commission knew its business when it advised the Government at the outset of its career to refrain from protective experiments.

The unpleasant fact is that our Irish manufacturers in very many cases cannot compare in price or quality with the goods which we import. The farmers, who, in the nature of things, are forced to sell their produce in the free British market, want to get the best possible value for their hardly earned money, and are not prepared to pay high prices for articles made in this country when they can buy articles of superior quality more cheaply. Before there can be any real revival of Irish manufactures, with or without protection, prices must be lowered and quality must be raised. President Cosgrave makes this point clear, and it is well that everybody in the country should recognise it. We are strongly in favour of the purchase of Irish goods. Nothing is more healthy in the national life of a people than a self-supporting economy; but before anything can be done native conditions must be brought within reach of world conditions. In our opinion a start ought to be made with agricultural produce. It is a well-known fact that our exports are failing; yet, when we come to examine last year's trade figures, what do we find? During 1924 the Free State imported bacon, hams, pork, pigs' heads, sausages and "other descriptions" of pig products to the total value of almost exactly £2,000,000. Its import of butter amounted to £738,503 and of eggs to £53,000. Surely this large trade could be kept in the country. It would be far more reasonable to expect our people to buy Irish butter, bacon and eggs, which can be, and are, produced in the country than to expect them to buy manufactured goods which home industry is not yet in a position to supply at world prices.

Too much stress cannot be laid on the necessity for supporting Irish agriculture. It is the nation's economic mainstay. The industry is capable of supplying the needs of every consumer in Ireland and of providing a large surplus for export. If everybody in the country should resolve tomorrow to eat nothing but Irish bacon, Irish butter and Irish eggs, our farmers would be richer to the extent of nearly £3,000,000 a year without any adventitious assistance in the shape of protection. If, and when, agriculture in this country has been developed properly, the people can turn their attention to manufactures. There are many industries—of which the manufacture of beet-sugar is one—which are akin to agriculture and can be developed pari passu with it; and everything possible ought to be done to encourage their development. First things, however, must come first. Agriculture is the foundation upon which any sound system of Irish economy must be built. Its efficiency depends on many things. The farmer must be educated up to modern standards. He must helped by wise government. He must be provided with good roads and railways to transport his produce from farm to market; and, above all things, he must not be crushed under a heavy burden of taxation, either by direct taxes or by protective tariffs, on his necessaries of life. Mr. Hogan deserves the greatest credit for the good work which he has done already in this direction; but much remains to be achieved.

The Coal Crisis.

The gravity of the industrial crisis in Britain is manifested in the remark of the miners' leader, Mr. A. J. Cook, that the country is on the verge of "the greatest struggle in the history and annals of industrialism." The position is simple. With wages and output at their present level, British coal cannot be sold at a competitive price. Already the fall in the demand for coal at its present price has declined so far that hundreds of thousands of miners have been thrown out of work. The industry has reached that point of depression at which the mineowners cannot pay present wages and keep the mines open without working at a loss. The masters' simple statement that costs come down if work is to continue is denounced as a "declaration of war." What, then, do the men's leaders demand? If the men refuse to work at an economic wage, and are prepared to invoke a general stoppage of national services in their support, they must have set their hopes on a settlement that never can be reached within the framework of the present economic system. The challenge is addressed, not to the mineowners, but to the established order. The revolutionary temper has seized men whose leaders have deliberately sought to provoke it, and the attack by a mob of miners on Bishop Welldon—condoned by Mr. Shinwell, formerly Socialist Minister for Mines, who said that "it was the sort of thing they might be expected to do"—is an ugly symptom of the passing of an industrial dispute into a revolt against authority in general. The British Government is sparing no effort to bring about a peaceful settlement, and the King himself has sought to be acquainted with all sides of the question, no doubt in order to be able to appeal, with all the power of his well-loved personality, for conciliation. Little can be done, however, by any Government if a revolutionary demand be propounded which could be granted only by the subversion of the order on which government rests. The belief grows that the threatened stoppage will be averted this week by an offer from the Government to subsidise the mining industry for a short period. A subsidy would tax the nation in the interest of a section, and would set a precedent that would encourage strikes. Britain's only hope lies in a fresh assertion of the steady English character, which hitherto has rejected, in hours of peril, the mad courses towards which Britain's enemies fain would urge the race.

William Jennings Bryan.

The death of Mr. William Jennings Bryan, who three times all but gained the Presidency of the United States, and in the past month came prominently before the world again in the grotesque trial at Dayton, Tennessee, removes a remarkable figure from American affairs. In his day Mr. Bryan was a great national figure. As leader of one of the two great parties in the greatest republic in the world, he upheld the cause of temperance and strove for international peace, moved in all his doings by old-fashioned moral rectitude. That a man of such eminence and influence should be so simple as to play a leading part in the absurd affair of the prosecution of a young teacher for the propagation of accepted scientific theory, is perplexing to us of the Old World, to whom the naïveté of America is strange. Mr. Bryan was the last great man whose mind was lodged among early Victorian ideas. He was the last who could so far resist the progress of knowledge as to regard evolutionary science either as untenable or as hostile to Christian belief. While we smile at his simplicity, we may deplore the passing of the earnestness with which it was combined. To-day men are untroubled by the problems of faith, less because they have taken pains to find their solution, than because they have grown indifferent to the spiritual things which were cherished so devoutly by the men who have gone.

Our American Guests.

From the days when the young Prince John, despite his boorishness, was well received by the Leinster and Munster chieftains, Ireland has always dealt kindly by the stranger within her gates. The officers and men of the United States battleship Pittsburgh, which has just anchored off Kingstown, will spend the next ten days as visitors to our shores. They come as ambassadors of a great nation that has always displayed the utmost friendship for Ireland. The affairs of the two countries have been continuously intertwined. It is especially interesting to note that more than one-third of the crew of the Pittsburgh claim Irish nationality. So we are not welcoming complete strangers, or even merely representatives of a friendly nation, but our very own kith and kin. We trust that all citizens will place themselves unreservedly at the disposal of our guests. It is unfortunate that their departure will coincide with the beginning of the Horse Show; but, perhaps, some will be able to make the journey from Belfast. Captain Evans has not only opened his ship for inspection, but has provided pinnaces to take visitors on board. It is to be hoped that, with this example to spur them on, Dublin will do its utmost to give our guests a right royal reception.

Begging.

Howth Urban District Council has set a good example in resolving to take all necessary steps to put down begging and gambling in public places under its control. Many visitors have landed in Ireland during July, and a larger influx is expected for Horse Show Week. Immediate action should be taken to check the veritable plague of street-begging by which strangers are annoyed and our country discredited. There is a common reluctance to discourage beggars for—says the instinct of charity—among many undeserving cases there may be one of genuine and grievous distress. Begging, however, has become almost a trade, and the idler with a glib tongue and a persistent manner makes more by pestering the public than many an honest man makes by earnest toil. Householders might do well to copy a shrewd old gentleman who used to hear beggars patiently and then offer to those who told stories of hunger a loaf of bread; impostors never troubled him a second time. Offer of food or of work in place of alms would relieve many a street of sham cases of distress. Too often do we see able-bodied men going with open palm from door to door, who will accept work in the garden or about the house with strange reluctance, and yet, for all their hunger and lack of money "for a night's lodgings," are never so destitute as to have to go without cigarettes.

PLEASANT DAY AT PHŒNIX PARK.

LARGE ATTENDANCE.

The second July meeting came off on Saturday afternoon on the Phœnix Park Club course and proved very successful, in spite of some passing showers, which, for a short time, threatened to interfere with the enjoyment of the visitors, many of whom had come from considerable distances. The beauty of the surroundings and the freshness of the breeze blowing across the Park found much appreciation among the visitors from the city, where the close atmosphere of the previous days had proved very enervating.

The attendance was larger than might have been expected on the eve of the cross-Channel rival attractions, and quite a number of strangers were present, many of whom expressed their admiration of the sport, the surroundings and the arrangements.

Among those present were the Earl of Granard, Lady Eva Forbes, Viscountess Gormanston, Viscountess Powerscourt, Lord and Lady Talbot de Malahide, Sir Walter Nugent, Lady Arnott, Captain L. Arnott, Captain and Madame Van Cutsem, General Sir Bryan and Lady Mahon, Mr. and Lady Mary Corbally, Mr. Justice and Mrs. Wylie, General and Mrs. Smith Bingham, Colonel Clarke, the Misses Nixon, Captain and Mrs. Ronald Nutting, Miss McNeile, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Maher, Captain Hume, the Misses Hume, Mr. Maxwell Arnott, Major Cape, Captain Charles Moore, Mr. Jameson, Miss Jameson, Mrs. Croft, Captain and Mrs. French.

Miss Knox, Mrs. Lingard, Mr. and Miss Dickinson, Mrs. Lupton, Mr. T. Lewin, Mr. H. O'Reilly, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. H. Peard, Mr. and Mrs. Newbolt, Miss Rosemary Hope-Vere, Mr. E. Bellaney, Mrs. G. C. Greene, Miss Brudenell Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Morton Jackson, Dr. and Mrs. Maunsell, Miss Woods, Mr. and Mrs. A. McCann, Captain Maude, Mr. H. Pack-Beresford, Mr. O'Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Martin, Miss Langrishe, Dr. and Mrs. O'Connor, Mr. and Mrs. McDonnell, Mr. and Mrs. Myerscough, Mr. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Levins Moore, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Cogan, Mr. Monckton, Mr. Crossley, Mr. and Miss Delaney, Mr. and Mrs. Brindley, Mr. Leonard, Mr. Wrench, Mr. Burke, Mr. and Mrs. O'Neill, and many others.

COMMITTEE ON ECONOMY.

LORD CHALMERS SAID TO BE CHAIRMAN.

The Sunday Times understands that Lord Chalmers is to be chairman of the committee which Mr. Baldwin on Thursday last announced his intention of appointing to consider what economies could be effected in the Navy, Army and Air Services.

Lord Chalmers, in 1882, entered the Treasury with first place in open competition. From 1903 to 1907 he was Assistant Secretary, and for the next four years he served as Chairman of the Board of Inland Revenue. Other offices which he filled were Permanent Secretary of the Treasury and Auditor of the Civil List, Governor of Ceylon, Joint Secretary to the Treasury, and Under Secretary for Ireland. Since 1924 Lord Chalmers has been Master of Peterhouse (Cambridge). He is an Honorary Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford, an Honorary Doctor of Laws of Glasgow, and an Honorary Doctor of Literature of Oxford.

THE CANCER GERM.

NEW DISCOVERY MAY HAVE GREAT RESULTS.

Professor Barton Scammell, President of the Radium Institute, Dover, writes that the discovery of the cancer germ, or spore, at the Mill Hill Laboratory may lead to great results in the war against this scourge of humanity.

"From a practical point of view," he proceeds, "the discovery made at the Radium Institute, Dover, that cancer is anaerobic—i.e., living without free oxygen, is important. It is confirmed by the experiments with tar and heavy mineral oils, which produce cancer when applied to the skin of men and animals; tar and heavy oils are non-oxidisable, the healthy life of the cells being destroyed, forming a suitable medium for the cancer 'spore' to grow in.

"Owing to certain defects in the diet and preparation of food the modern civilised human being suffers from 'potassium starvation,' and the increase of cancer is a corollary of this state of things. The recent report of the Middlesex Hospital calls attention to the fact that cases of cancer have been known to recover spontaneously. This curative power in the blood depends entirely on the due supply of the radio-active alkali potash.

"Without the help of bio-chemical science the medical man is handicapped in his fight with disease. The human body is composed of certain chemical elements, and, if, from any cause the due proportion of these elements is defective, then, the health of the body suffers and the system is left open to the attack of disease.

"An excess of calcium (lime) in the body causes rapid growth in cancer, of both varieties, the accumulation of calcium is a feature of middle-age; also, cancer is a disease of people over forty years of age. It is impossible to overlook the connection of these facts. The solutions of the radio-active alkali tend to clear out of the body the calcium accumulations, and the value of them in the treatment of cancer is thus partially explained.

"In cases where the knife is necessary the use of these solutions, before and after the operation, increases the chances of recovery; the vitality of the patient being improved."

LEAGUE OF NATIONS AND SLAVERY.

CONCERTED ACTION SUGGESTED.

GENEVA, Sunday.

The report of the Temporary Committee on Slavery of the League of Nations, which is the outcome of twelve days' discussions, is a comprehensive document, dealing with the various forms of slavery and embodying a series of proposed measures with a view to remedying it. These measures provide for concerted action by several Powers.

The report expresses disappointment because some Governments, particularly those of Mussulman States, have not replied to the questionnaire sent out by the Committee.

The reports of those Governments, says the report, would have presented special interest. The report will be submitted to the League Council and the Assembly in September.—(Reuter.)

COURT AND PERSONAL.

To-day the King leaves Buckingham Palace for Goodwood Park, where he will be the guest of the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, whose son and daughter-in-law, the Earl and Countess of March, will be the hosts of the Duke and Duchess of York at Molecomb, which is near Chichester and close to Goodwood. The Countess of Yarborough, who is making a slow recovery from her serious illness, was able to attend the Royal garden party on Friday, but was obliged to make use of a bath chair, in which she was wheeled about the grounds. Amongst the Irish guests present that afternoon were the Countess of Bandon, the Ladies Bernard, Priscilla Countess Annesley, Lady Blanche Conyngham, Lady Alice Mahon, Lady Arthur Browne, Lord and Lady Greville, Lord Frederick Hamilton, Lady Adelaide Taylour, the Hon. Lady McCalmont, the Hon. Mrs. Albert Brassey, the Hon. Mrs. Barry, the Hon. Lady Bingham, Lady (Henry) Wilson and Lady White.

Among the leading attractions being organised for Horse Show Week is the ball in aid of the Irish Branch of Queen Victoria's Jubilee Nurses, which will be held on Friday, August 7th, in the Imperial ballroom, in Messrs. A marriage has been arranged, and will shortly take place, between Captain J. L. M. Barrett, 13/18th Hussars, and Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Porter, of 20 Roland Gardens, London, S.W.7, formerly of Clogher Park.

The bride wore a simple dress of white satin beauté, her tulle veil being held in position with bunches of orange blossom, and she carried a sheaf of lilies.

The church was tastefully decorated in blue and white, the high altar being adorned with an artistic array of roses, carnations, palms and delphiniums.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Commons Cottage by Mrs. Ryan O'Connor, where over 100 guests were assembled.

LONDON LETTER.

POSSIBLE SUBSIDY FOR MINES.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

It was rumoured yesterday that the court of inquiry into the coal dispute will recommend the payment of a subsidy to the industry and that the Government is prepared to accept the proposal. It is impossible to say whether there is any foundation for this story, but there is an inclination in some quarters to think that the rumour is inspired by recent talk of subsidies in the House of Commons. It is true, of course, that the industry cannot pay its way at present. If it is decided to give it a subsidy in order that it may do so, the cost will run into many millions of pounds unless the period is a very short one. The time suggested is three months, in order that the industry may be tided over its present difficulty.

Should the Government decide to give a subsidy to the mining industry, claims will follow for subsidies to other distressed industries, and the last national position will be worse than the first. With the prevailing demand for economy the country will regard somewhat doubtfully huge sums being given in doles to indigent trades—a point the Government will, no doubt, recognise; but with the industry at its present low level it may be thought advisable to spend a few millions with the hope of reaping many. One point should be borne in mind. If the Labour Party agrees to accept subsidies for trades it will be a clear indication that organised Labour recognises that the Cobdenite tradition is a failure.

Parliament Prolonged.

A subsidy to the mining industry will prolong the present sittings of the House of Commons; for it would require the passing of a financial resolution and a separate Bill before it could become effective. Such a measure would be hotly debated, and scarcely could be passed through both Houses in less than three or four days. Those few days would carry the sittings on to the end of the second week in August, and the House might have to wait for a holiday until August 14th, instead of August 8th.

Numerous Meetings Arranged.

A very busy week has been arranged for those taking part in the coal negotiations, and it opens to-morrow with a meeting between the Prime Minister and the Committee of the Trade Union Congress, while on Tuesday Mr. Baldwin will hold a special meeting of the Cabinet to discuss the situation. On Wednesday Mr. Bridgeman will preside over a joint conference of the coalowners and miners. If no settlement has been reached there will be a special conference in London on Thursday of the executives of all trade unions to consider the action to be taken by the trade union movement generally. The question of financial support—a very important one, since the miners have very little money—will also be considered.

Liberal Hopes.

Liberalism hopes to secure something out of the present mining trouble. The National Liberal Federation has requested the Liberal organisations throughout the mining constituencies to send representatives, who must be working miners, to a conference to be addressed by Lord Oxford in London on Friday. The Liberal leader will set forth in great detail the proposals of the Liberal Party for the future control of the mining industry, and a discussion on the practicability of these proposals will follow. Mr. Lloyd George is to address the conference on the following day.

Economy Committee.

It is understood that Lord Chalmers will be the Chairman of the Economy Committee of three to be set up by the Prime Minister to examine details of expenditure in the public services. Lord Chalmers is well known in Dublin, where he was Under-Secretary for some little time. Rumour says that Sir Eric Geddes is to be invited to join the committee; but it is thought that he would refuse any such invitation, for—as will be remembered—he presided over a former Economy Committee, many of whose most important recommendations were disregarded.

Inquiry into Profiteering.

The members of the Food Council are to be called together on Wednesday by the Chairman (Lord Bradbury), when he will outline the constitution and functions of the new body. It is intended that every interest associated with the production and distribution of food supplies shall be given attention, and inquiries will be made into the question of profiteering. The Council at present has no punitive powers, but should it be deemed really necessary the Government is prepared to grant them. The Council will include two women, one the wife of a working man, and the other a Labour member of a Thames-side Council. Comfortable offices have been allotted to the Council in Sanctuary Buildings, Westminster, indicating that it will be independent of any other Government department.

Foreign Royalty in London.

The ex-King of Greece and his Queen are staying for a few days in London at Brown's Hotel. The King makes no secret of the fact that he would very much like to remain in London, but that his means will not permit. Attended by a suite of four, the King and Queen take their meals in the ordinary dining room, and act generally as a very democratic couple. The King, who is a great-grandson of Queen Victoria, looks very English, speaks the language fluently, and, since he has no Rumanian, and the Queen has no Greek, their conversation is held in English. The home of the Royal couple is at present in Rumania.

Increase of Pigeons.

The pigeons of the City of London are increasing at such an alarming rate that the Corporation is becoming seriously perturbed. Hawkers do a great trade in selling bird food to the ordinary population, who consider themselves born bird-fanciers when these descendants of a hardy wild race become so tame as to partake of their rations from an outstretched hand. Pigeons from the country have learned to bring their wives and families to a place of security and plenty. Those in control, however, are thinking out a plan by which these aerial pets can be limited to a reasonable number, and the only remedy seems to be the painless extinction of a number each year. Nobody wishes to have the birds extinguished altogether, since they are one of the sights of London and are looked for eagerly by returning exiles.

Forthcoming Marriage.

Viscount Suirdale, the son and heir of Lord Donoughmore, is to be married to Miss Jean Hotham to-morrow at Holy Trinity Church, Sloane street. The ceremony is to take place at 1.45 to enable the bride and bridegroom to leave early for a honeymoon in France. Admiral of the Fleet Sir Charles Hotham will give the bride away. Miss Hotham will wear a Victoire gown of white crêpe romain, embroidered with pearls, the skirt inset with chiffon godets over pale pink, while her train of old lace, lent by Lady Donoughmore, will be carried by her seven-year-old brother. Eleven bridesmaids will follow her.

The possession of the land by so many small proprietors is a great safeguard against political disturbances, the peasant as a proprietor tending obviously to become more and more conservative.—General Sir H. A. Lawrence (Bank of Roumania).

PRESIDENT'S PLEA FOR SUPPORT.

ELECTION OF SENATORS.

FAIR PLAY FOR ALL.

FROM OUR REPORTER.

MULLINGAR, Sunday.

PRESIDENT Cosgrave had an enthusiastic reception here to-day, when he addressed a great meeting from the balcony of the County Hall.

He travelled from Dublin by motor car. Special precautions had been taken by the military authorities to see that there should be no repetition of what occurred at Wexford a few weeks ago, when the President's progress was delayed by trees which had been felled across the roads.

A short distance outside the town President Cosgrave was met by a procession, which, with a band playing and banners flying, escorted him to the house of Mr. P. J. Shaw, T.D. After a brief rest he went to the County Hall, where several addresses of welcome—including one from the County Council and one from the tenants of a recently-divided ranch—were presented.

In his reply, President Cosgrave said that he was sure he voiced the hopes of nine-tenths of the people when he said that it was their desire that all the bitterness of the past five years should be wiped out and that they should be spared further acrimony and strife.

"We should realise our responsibilities as citizens," he said, amid applause, "agreeing to differ, but, above all and before all else, agreeing that our country, its people, and its needs have first claim on our services."

THE CHIEF POINTS.

After the presentation of addresses there was a luncheon, and then the meeting was held in front of the County Hall. The following are the chief points in the President's speech:—

We should endeavour to improve our trade and commerce in every way. There has been a considerable falling off during recent years in the support for Irish-manufactured goods.

Public men and bodies should be prepared to give evidence of their belief in the country by shouldering any disabilities which the purchase of home-manufactured goods might entail. Industrialists must remember, however, that economic laws must be obeyed; that their goods must bear comparison with the goods produced in other countries if they were to win and hold the market.

Great efforts are needed from Capital and Labour—the one to perfect its business organisation; the other to answer the challenge which the workers of other countries gave to its industry and craftsmanship.

I find in the list of candidates for the Senate men drawn from all walks of life. Their candidature is evidence of their belief in the State. There are more than nineteen suitable persons in it.

COUNTRY'S TRADE.

SUPPORT NEEDED FOR HOME INDUSTRIES.

President Cosgrave said that now when the political fever was abating, and the needs of the time were attracting more attention, their first duty should be to examine their national economy, and see how far it was possible, through the medium of their political activity, to strengthen their position in regard to trade and commerce. They should endeavour to improve in every possible way their industrial activity, to take a pride in recommending purchases of Irish manufacture, and to foster in every homestead in the country the prompt settlement of business obligations.

There had been a considerable falling off during recent years in the admirable spirit of support for Irish manufactured goods. Common among the excuses offered were the quality, the cost, the lack of punctuality in the delivery of the goods, and, to a lesser extent, the lack of a disposition to remedy defects in materials supplied. The present situation was one which called for some patience and some consideration for disabilities.

EFFECT OF POLITICAL DISTURBANCES.

It should be remembered that the industry and commerce had suffered by reason of political disturbances, and that Irish manufacturers, as a body, compared with those of other countries, lacked that very essential commodity, capital. Public men and public bodies should be prepared to give evidence of their belief in the country by shouldering any disabilities which the purchase of home-manufactured goods might entail.

It should be borne in mind, however, by industrialists that economic laws must be obeyed. In quality and price Irish goods should bear comparison with the goods of other countries if home-manufactured articles were to obtain and hold the markets. With a little patience and consideration they would speedily outgrow the disabilities, and the amount of employment would be increased.

Referring to the steps taken by the Government to utilise the water power resources of the country, President Cosgrave remarked that those steps had been unfavourably received in certain quarters. The same might be said of many important measures which the Government had taken in order to promote the well-being of the people. He would like to put some question to the critics. What had been their contribution to the national wealth? What were their proposals for improving the country's economic position?

A HEAVY TASK.

He would remind them that the task of the Government was no easy one. The problems which had to be faced day by day were many and complex, and called for sound appreciation of things as they existed and for careful balancing of alternative solutions. By those solutions it was impossible to satisfy everybody.

They lived in an age where modern development was so rapid that they could not compete on level terms in many cases. It was a time when they should call for maximum effort from those two great bodies, Capital and Labour—the one to perfect its organisation of business; the worker to realise that not an employer only, nor Capital solely, was served by good workmanship, but that he was challenged by the craftsmanship of other countries. That challenge he should meet in his own interest and in the interest of his fellow-countrymen.

Success in business was largely dependent on expert analysis of every item calculated to affect price and quality. There was little use in criticising other factors in the matter of production, if the closest and most careful attention was not paid to that aspect of the business.

RATES AND TAXES.

They would, of course, be met with the charge that taxes and rates were high. All that he could say on that was that, so far as taxes were concerned, if the same care and attention were devoted to business

"MASTER MOTORIST" KILLED.

CAR OVERTURNS IN FRENCH GRAND PRIX.

ITALIAN CARS WITHDRAWN

THE French Motor Grand Prix, which was held yesterday, was marred by a fatal accident which resulted in the death of the Italian Ascari. His motor car, Alfa-Romeo I., overturned in the twenty-first lap, on the Linas-Montlhery track. Ascari was severely injured, and although efforts were made to save his life by amputating his leg, he died while being taken to Paris.

Before the race he stated that there were a number of sharp turns that would entail a good deal of slowing down, and that as the result of the damage to the surface as the result of the recent storms, that the frequent application of brakes would be necessary.

HOW THE ACCIDENT OCCURRED.

Ascari took the lead from the outset and held it until he met with his fatal accident. He beat the record for the course in several laps, his speed for the eleventh lap being 128 kilometres 539 metres an hour.

The junction of the autodrome track, with the touring circuit, is in a straight line, with a slight curve in front of the Chateau de Saint Eutrope. This is where cars attain the maximum speed. While travelling at a rate of 200 kilometres an hour, Ascari took the curve too sharply, dashed into the balustrades, and bounded back on to the course, then, colliding once more with the barriers, the car turned over.

Ascari became entangled in the wheel and was finally flung out on to the road. He was taken to the dressing station where, after a short examination, it was found necessary to amputate his right leg, which had been almost torn off. His head and body were also badly cut. He was promptly placed in an ambulance and sent to Paris, but died on the way.

The Alfa-Romeo representatives then withdrew their two other competing cars as a sign of mourning.

"THE MASTER DRIVER."

Antonio Ascari was a Milanese and 36 years of age. He was the leading driver of the Alfa-Romeo Company, and but for engine trouble would probably have won the Grand Prix on the Lyons circuit last year. He won the Italian Grand Prix at Monza in 1924, and the Grand Prix d'Europe at Spa last month.

Ascari started a strong favourite for yesterday's race, and his death is greatly regretted in motoring circles.

Count Brilli Peri, who was also driving an Alfa-Romeo car in the race, said to a newspaper representative before the race: "Ascari is the master of us all," and Campari, last year's victor, prophesied that he himself would win, but only if Ascari had a breakdown.

The tragedy cast a gloom over the great event, and a heavy downpour of rain added to the general depression, as well as to the difficulty of driving at top speed.

France carried off the honours of the race, and filled seven out of the first eight places. Britain was represented by three Sunbeams, one of which was placed third. The winner's average speed was 112 kilos 220 metres an hour.

The Sunbeam car driven by Count Masetti finished third. The two others, driven by Conelli and Segravi (says Reuter), gave up after the 21st and 31st laps, respectively.

THE RESULT.

The following are the official placings:—

Delage III. (Benoist), France	1
Delage II. (Wagner), France	2
Sunbeam II. (Masetti), Britain	3
Bugatti I. (Constantini), France	4
Bugatti II. (Pierre de Viscaya), France	5
Bugatti IV. (Ferdnand de Viscaya), France	6

THE COURSE DESCRIBED.

The total length of the special route was twelve and a half kilometres, including 1 kilometre 250 metres round part of the racing track; the total distance of the race is 1,000 kilometres, 80 laps of the circuit.

The start was given to competitors on the track just opposite the grand stand; they first ran practically straight down the St. Eutrope line; turning to the left they came to the Bailleau hairpin bend, after which they were faced with the "Camel's Back," sufficiently described by its name.

The "Discornes Bend," which is practically a complete circle, leads them to the Bruyeras Hill, which ends in a right-angled turn known as the "Birage du Foret." They then turned homeward along the Courcl straight, sweeping round to the left and then sharply to the right before entering the track, half of which is covered before they again arrive before the grand stand.

PREVIOUS RESULTS.

The first Grand Prix, properly so-called, of the French Automobile Club, dates from 1906, when it was run over the Le Mans circuit. Since its foundation honours have been well divided; Renault, Fiat, Mecedes, Peugeot, Duesenburg, Sunbeam, Alfa-Romeo and others have carried off the prize. Last year's winner was Caimpari, on an Alfa-Romeo, who made an average speed of 114 kilometres 208 over the Lyons circuit. Seagrave, on a Sunbeam, won the year before at Tours, making an average of 121 kilometres 277. The highest record was made on the Strasbourg circuit in 1922 by Nazzaro, driving a Fiat, he having achieved an average speed of 127 kilometres 670 per hour.

The race is open to two-seater cars weighing, empty, a minimum of 600 kilograms and with a maximum capacity of two litres. The car carried only the pilot, but the latter is aided in taking fuel on board and in any necessary repairs by an authorised assistant stationed at a point along the route. The prizes are as follows:—150,000 frs. for the first, 20,000 frs. to the second, and 20,000 frs. to the third. In order that they might be easily distinguished, the French cars were painted blue, the British cars green, and the Italian cars red.

SIKI FOUND STABBED.

SUPPOSED SEQUEL TO GANG FIGHT IN PARIS.

NEW YORK, Sunday.

Battling Siki, the Senegalese boxer, who was defeated on points when he fought McTigue at the Scala Theatre, Dublin, two years ago, has been found lying unconscious in the street, stabbed in the neck, in the quarter of the city known as "Hell's Kitchen."

He was removed to hospital, where his condition was found to be serious. It is believed that Siki had taken part in a gang fight.—(Reuter.)

AN AMERICAN VISITOR.

U.S. FLAGSHIP AT KINGSTOWN.

TEN DAYS' STAY IN DUBLIN WATERS.

IRISHMEN AMONG THE CREW.

AT six o'clock yesterday morning the United States battle cruiser Pittsburgh steamed into Dublin Bay and dropped anchor in the "Man-o'-War Roads," a mile south of Kingstown Harbour. She will remain in Dublin Bay for the next ten days, and arrangements have been made for entertaining the officers and men during their visit.

Although the Pittsburgh's visit to Dublin was announced some weeks ago, residents in the Kingstown and Dalkey districts were surprised on looking from their windows early in the morning to see the big grey four-funnelled vessel already anchored in the Bay.

It was not long before visitors to the ship began to arrive, the first being Captain Holmes, R.N., the Harbour Master of Kingstown. An hour or two later two members of the General Headquarters Staff of the National Army went on board, and, on behalf of the Free State Army, extended a welcome to the vessel's officers and crew.

The premises of the Royal St. George Yacht Club and all the public buildings were decorated with flags and pennants, and on St. Michael's Wharf a guard of National soldiers, with double sentries, was posted.

THE PITTSBURGH.

"GOOD AND SEAWORTHY."

An Irish Times Reporter was one of the earliest visitors to the ship. He was welcomed by two young ensigns, who, proud of their vessel, which they described as "an old tub, but good and seaworthy," escorted him here and all through every part of it. There was a pleasant odour of good cooking, which sharpened the appetite. Luncheon was in preparation, and in Gargantuan style, for to provide a meal of roast chicken, asparagus, and potatoes, with fruit tart to follow, for 55 officers and a crew of 750 is a pretty heavy task.

Although the Pittsburgh was built at Philadelphia over twenty years ago she is by no means an obsolete vessel. She saw service in the Spanish-American War and in the recent World War did useful convoy work, and for a time was used as a transport ship, carrying American troops to the Western battle front. The original name of the vessel was the Pennsylvania, but when the United States Government some years ago built a new vessel of the Dreadnought type and named it the Pennsylvania the vessel now at Kingstown was re-named the Pittsburgh. She carries ten six-inch and four eight-inch guns, two fore and two aft, and is the "crack" vessel of her class in gunnery, having won the gunnery trophy last year.

PHYSICAL FITNESS.

Aboard the ship great attention is paid to detail, particularly in regard to the health of her personnel. The medical staff consists of three doctors, who have elaborate and up-to-date sick bays and an operating theatre. There is also a dentist, who makes periodical examinations of the men's teeth. Physical fitness seems to be the watchword throughout the vessel.

The Pittsburgh (15,000 tons and 515 feet in length) is the flagship of the American Fleet in European waters, where she has been commissioned for nearly three years. The Admiral of the Fleet, which comprises one battle cruiser, six destroyers, and a steam yacht—the Scorpion—is Vice Admiral Philip Andrews, and the Commander of the vessel, Captain Frank Taylor Evans, who is the son of "Fighting Bob," an officer famous in American sea annals, especially for his work in the Spanish-American War. Besides the large crew the ship carries a detachment of Marines—those sailor soldiers whose efficiency in drill and musketry is so well known.

THE CREW.

Almost a third of the large crew is Irish, or of Irish extraction, and many of them are looking forward to visiting the homes of their ancestors in Ireland. When it became known some months ago that Dublin was to be a port of call, the ship's office was inundated with applications for leave by those of the crew who had relatives in the country. As far as is possible leave will be granted to these men. All aboard, however, were delighted about the visit, and our reporter was bombarded with questions. "Have you good golf links here?" some of the officers asked. The men wanted to know whether Dublin was a "dry" city on Sundays, and, of course, there were many questions about the reputed good looks of the Dublin girls. During the afternoon a portion of the crew were granted shore leave, and the presence of so many American seamen in uniform in Dublin attracted much attention. American naval rules do not permit the officers to wear uniform ashore, but as many as could get leave visited the city in mufti.

Through the courtesy of Captain Evans, the vessel will be open for inspection by visitors during her ten days' stay in Dublin Bay. Visiting hours will be from 10 a.m. to 8.45 p.m. daily, and a small fleet of motor and steam pinnaces will be available to carry visitors to and from the vessel free of charge.

ENTERTAINMENT PROGRAMME.

Since she received her present commission the Pittsburgh has visited almost every great sea port in Europe, and amongst ports of call in Great Britain were Weymouth and Cardiff, in each of which ten days were spent. When she leaves Dublin on August 8th she will go to Belfast for a week, and afterwards to Glasgow.

A number of the wives of officers serving aboard the vessel crossed by the mail boat from Holyhead on Saturday evening, and have taken up residence in Kingstown and Dublin hotels, where they will remain during the ship's stay in Dublin.

An extensive programme for the entertainment of the Admiral, officers, non-commissioned officers, and men has been drawn up, in which the Government, the Army, and private citizens are co-operating. One of the chief functions will be the garden party which is being given by Dr. Hathaway, the American Consul-General, at Cail-na-Grine, Carrickmines, to-day. The morning will be devoted to ceremonial calls by the Vice-Admiral Andrews, and the return calls, it is understood, will be made at the offices of the Consul-General.

WOMEN BATHERS IN PERIL.

RESCUED BY M.P.

News reached London last night of the rescue of two lady bathers at Ostend yesterday morning by Commander Kenworthy, M.P. for Central Hull.

It appears that while a large number of visitors were bathing in a heavy sea, two Italian ladies were carried out some distance by the strong tide, and were in difficulties, when Commander Kenworthy swam out with a line, which he attached to one of the ladies, who was hauled ashore in an exhausted condition. Commander Kenworthy then assisted the second woman to reach the beach.

The rescue was witnessed by a large crowd.

During the next few months 10,000 German farmers are expected to arrive in the States of Sonora and Sinaloa, where some of the richest farming country in Mexico is to be found.

A NOTED AMERICAN.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. BRYAN.

REMARKABLE CAREER.

Mr. William Jennings Bryan, who, last week, at Dayton, Tennesse, was so conspicuous in the prosecution of Professor Stopes for teaching evolution in the schools, died suddenly at Dayton yesterday. According to a Reuter message, Mr. Bryan "had partaken of a hearty dinner, and stated that he was feeling well, but would take a short rest. At five o'clock he was found dead in bed. The cause of death is supposed to have been heart disease.

After the Stopes trial Mr. Bryan was preparing for the Press the speech which he was not allowed to deliver in court. He appeared to be in the best of health, and stated that "he was ready to carry on a campaign on behalf of 'fundamentalism', to the people and the country."

William Jennings Bryan was one of those remarkable men who narrowly miss greatness. Of Presbyterian stock, he combined with an austerity of moral outlook and belief a style of oratory prodigal in ornament. Invective was his metier, and in his most effective of set speeches it took the place alike of reason and passive eloquence. His was the class of oratory that appeals particularly to the masses. So vigorously did he use it that on three occasions he was nominated for the Presidency of the United States. Twice he opposed and was defeated by McKinley, and on the third and last occasion his successful rival was Mr. Taft.

William Jennings Bryan was born at Salem, Illinois, in 1860. He graduated with honours at Illinois College, and devoted himself to the study of Law. In 1883 he was admitted to the local Bar, and his personality, together with his gift of vigorous speech, soon brought him a wide practice. He was happy in his marriage, for his bride—Miss Mary Elizabeth Baird—was also a lawyer, and became his partner no less in professional affairs than in affection. She fought his cases with him in the courts, and it is difficult to say how much of his earlier success was due to his own efforts and how much to her's.

Soon Bryan mixed political with legal interests. He had his eye on Congress. He edited a newspaper, and in the Press and on the platform advocated those peculiar views no currency — free silver coinage, trusts, Imperialism, and the rest, with which his name has been so long identified. He it was who spoke of "crucifying humanity upon a cross of gold."

The phrase was typical of Mr. Bryan's oratory. It caught the public eye; he was hailed by masses of emotional people as a master speaker.

Bryan was returned to the 52nd and 53rd Congresses. He was nominated for the Senate, but was defeated in the Convention by John M. Thurston. Mr. Bryan wrote the "Silver Plank" in the Democratic Convention platform of 1896. It coincided with his well-known views on currency, and a notable speech led to his first nomination for the Presidency. He travelled 18,000 miles in his campaign, and spoke at every stopping place, but McKinley beat him handsomely. Then Bryan lectured on Imperialism, and in the war with Spain he raised the third Regiment of Nebraska Volunteer Infantry and became its Colonel. This put him once more in the running for the Presidency, but once again McKinley vanquished him.

A world-tour followed. Mr. Bryan was received with open arms in many lands, but his oratory seemed to droop and wither in the cooler air of the Old World.

Taft beat him in his third and last bid for the Presidency. When Mr. Wilson became President in 1913 Mr. Bryan was appointed Secretary of State, but he resigned in 1915, not without some bitterness.

Among Mr. Bryan's works were "The First Battle" (1897), "Under Other Flags" (1904), "The Old World and its Ways" (1907), "Heart to Heart Appeals" (1917), "The Menace of Darwinism" and "The Bible and its Enemies" (1921), and finally "In His Image" (1922).

It is remarkable that one of Mr. Bryan's last works dealt with the subject of his last appearance in a public Court.

RUSH TO IRELAND.

THOUSANDS COME BY KINGSTOWN.

NEARLY three thousand people arrived in Kingstown on Saturday by the mail boats from Holyhead. Many of the passengers were from the United States, and a large number were English visitors. On Saturday morning they numbered 2,600, 1,400 of whom travelled by the mail boat Scotia. Later the Hibernia came in with 1,200 more. On the previous Saturday morning about 2,000 people were landed at the Carlisle Pier.

RAILWAY COMPANY'S ENTERPRISE.

There has been a continuously increasing influx of visitors during the summer months, and there seems to be a re-discovering of Ireland and its pleasure resorts.

In great part this is attributed to the enterprise of the management of the London, Midland and Scottish Railway Company. This company, among other undertakings, enlisted the assistance of a number of well-known artists, who have painted pictures of many beautiful Irish scenes. Each is a work of art, and the pictures have been lithographed, and reproductions have been spread far and wide over the company's system.

It was advertising on a costly scale, but it is believed to have been most effective in securing the desired results.

ROSCARBERY MURDER.

REPRIEVE OF FEMALE PRISONER

It was officially announced last Saturday that the Governor-General, on the advice of the Executive Council, had commuted to penal servitude for life the death sentence passed on Hannah O'Leary for the murder of her brother, Patrick, at Roscarbery, Co. Cork.

Cornelius O'Leary was sentenced to death for the same crime, but no recommendation was made in his case. The execution is fixed for to-morrow morning.

COMMUNIST AFFRAY.

MANY INJURED AT STRASBOURG.

STRASBOURG, Sunday.

About sixty Communists, armed with clubs, last evening attacked a Socialist meeting. A violent scuffle ensued, which lasted twenty-five minutes. Several persons were injured on both sides.—(Reuter.)

THE "MRS. COOLIDGE STEP."

PRESIDENT'S WIFE SETS A NEW FASHION.

NEW YORK, July 18.

The stay of President and Mrs. Coolidge at the health resort of Swampscott (Mass.) has apparently not been without effect among the other holiday-makers there. According to the New York Times, Mrs. Coolidge's easy manner of walking, especially her long stride, has set a new fashion among the women of the summer colony, in the vicinity of Swampscott.

Mrs. Coolidge takes a long walk at least once a day, and her long athletic stride caused no little comment at first. It was noticed soon after her first appearances on the roadways and along the beaches, however, that she was being imitated not only by the smarter set, but by all classes. Practically the entire colony is taking more to walking, and has copied what now is commonly known as "the Mrs. Coolidge step."—(Reuter.)

The Canadian Pacific liner the Empress of Scotland left Southampton last Saturday with 100 teachers, who are going on an extended tour throughout the Dominionon on an educational holiday.

SUGAR FACTORY SITE.

ATHY STATES ITS CASE.

8,200 ACRES OF BEET GUARANTEED.

FARMERS' REMARKABLE ENTHUSIASM.

THERE was remarkable activity in Athy and district yesterday in connection with the sugar beet project.

The representative of M. Lippens, the Belgian sugar manufacturer, who will receive a subsidy from the Free State Government in order to establish a factory, says that the Barrow valley is well suited for the purpose, and the general opinion is that the choice lies between Athy and Carlow. Tipperary and North Cork also have strong claims.

Last Friday it was stated on behalf of the farmers in the Carlow area that they were prepared to grow at least 5,000 acres of beet—the minimum amount required by M. Lippens.

Yesterday Athy's claims were advocated at a series of meetings in South Kildare and parts of Queen's County, and in the evening at an enthusiastic meeting in Athy it was announced, if the factory were built in the town, the farmers in the respective districts would guarantee to put 8,200 acres under beet, as follow:—

Athy district	1,500 acres
Monasterevan	1,000 "
Rathangan	500 "
Ballylinan and Ballyadams	200 "
Castledermot	500 "
North Kildare	500 "
Mountmellick	1,000 "
Portarlington	500 "
Vicarstown and Stradbally	500 "
Maryborough	1,000 "
South-East Queen's County	1,000 "

ADVANTAGES OF BEET.

WHY FARMERS SHOULD GROW IT.

FROM OUR REPORTER.

ATHY, Sunday.

The claims of Athy as the site of the first Irish beet sugar factory were strongly urged this morning at meetings in many parishes in South Kildare and the adjoining parts of Queen's County. The farmers were told that better barley followed beet, and were advised to put half their turnip ground under beet. This, it was said, would enable them to pocket £20 per acre and keep as many cattle as before, because cattle could be fed on beet pulp and a half-ration of swedes.

The day's campaign to secure promises for the 5,000 acres of beet required for the purposes of the factory concluded with a largely-attended meeting in Athy.

Canon Mackey, P.P., V.G., who presided, said that the question was a national one. If the beet sugar factory proved a success it would tend to promote, not only the welfare of the district in which it was scheduled, but the welfare of Ireland as a whole. If the beet sugar industry was properly developed it would give a reasonable return on the capital invested in it. The industry would contribute to the wealth of the farmer, the comfort of the labourer, the prosperity of the shopkeepers and everything should be done to secure its establishment in the Barrow area near Athy. If Messrs. Lippens were guided by facts they would decide at Brussels on August 4th that the best place for the factory was Athy.

THE BEST FARMERS.

Mr. John Conlan, T.D., moved a resolution asking Messrs. Lippens to investigate the possibility and suitability of the Barrow area for the erection of a sugar beet factory. He said that they had in their midst, not only the best farmers, but the most skilful agricultural labourers in the country.

Mr. Conlan then gave the figures mentioned above.

Mr. P. J. Egan, T.D., stated that, in promoting the beet sugar scheme, they were taking steps to promote the economic future of the country. He believed that they could make the industry as successful in the Free State as it was in France and Belgium. The factory would not supply more than one-fifth of the sugar required by the Irish people. If it were successful, it would be followed by others. Once the site of the factory was decided upon it should have the loyal support of farmers. Ireland must show the foreigners who proposed to develop the country that they would not be let down. He hoped that there would be sent to the district someone who would give farmers all the information they wanted about beet.

While Messrs. Lippens were prepared to invest £400,000 in this industry, they would like to see some Irish money in it. He himself had decided to put £1,000 into the factory.

Senator McEvoy asked agriculturists unanimously to make the project successful.

PERSEVERANCE.

M. Schurmans said that he was afraid of enthusiasm. What they wanted for an industry like beet-growing and sugar manufacture was perseverance.

Mr. G. Wolfe, T.D., said that the Government had promoted only one scheme, because they were determined to make it a success. On the Continent beet-growing had turned out to be the backbone of agriculture.

Mr. W. Davin, T.D., said that he was not there to advocate the claims of any one town against another. The taxpayers would have to pay the £2,000,000, and it should be their object to get the best site possible. The establishment of the factory would tend to prevent the rush of young people from the country to towns. As a representative of labour, he promised the whole-hearted support of the workers if the beet factory was established in the Barrow area.

As a Protectionist, he was glad to see that the Government had taken the step of providing farmers with a guaranteed price for their product. If the factory was established in Athy he would guarantee support from Leix.

The Rev. Father Hipwell, P.P., Ballyadams, said that, as far as tillage was concerned, there was no place better than Athy.

The resolution was carried.

THE PIONEERS.

CORK COMPLAINS OF BAD TREATMENT.

The County Cork Executive of the Irish Farmers' Union adopted a resolution stating that the county had special claims to the first beet sugar factory.

Mr. Harold Barry said that a large quantity of sugar beet was grown in Co. Cork. If the first factory was not built in North Cork it would not be the fault of the North Cork Industrial Development Association. They worked solely for the good of their country and spent much time and money on the work of organisation. No one could deny the fact that it was owing to their energy and determination that the sugar beet industry had at last been established in Ireland. He would urge on the Government to act promptly and still further encourage this great national industry that would put new life into agriculture. It was not one factory that should be subsidised, but a dozen. The sugar beet industry would help winter dairying, pay the farmer, give work to our people and make our country prosperous and contented. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. O'Connor, seconding the motion, said that the County Cork had not been well treated by the Government or by the proposed new company. Messrs. Lippens firm in investigating the possibilities of a sugar beet factory in Co. Cork spent not more than two or three hours in the county.

A Wishaw railwayman, on holiday at Aberdeen, was drowned while bathing yesterday.

LATE NEWS.

COAL MINING.

THE IMMEDIATE TASK.

The Times, in a leading article on the coal mines crisis, says:—Assuming that the notices are suspended, and the pits are not laid idle at the end of this week, what is the next step necessary in order to carry on? The easiest and simplest expedient, no doubt, is financial assistance from the Government, or guaranteed by the Government, to those mines which are in the greatest difficulties, but are yet worth preserving—that is to say, a subsidy. The objections to this form of assistance are familiar and glaring. It is artificial, economically unsound, demoralising, a dangerous precedent, and so on. All that is granted. But the question here is one of alternative evils. None but the most pugnacious persons will hold that a temporary subsidy would be a greater evil than a complete stoppage of the coal industry, and even they would not venture to get up in public and say so. If a general vote were taken on it, there would be an overwhelming majority in favour of a subsidy.

The Chairman of the Court of Inquiry hinted at it more than once during the sittings, and there seems to be a general expectation that the report which is to be presented to-day will recommend something of the kind.

But all these things are mere stop-gaps. Even if they are satisfactorily arranged and put in operation the real problem remains, and unless it is effectually tackled the whole position will become acute again before long, and the intervening artificial repose induced by a subsidy will have only made an ultimate solution more difficult. The immediate task is to carry on the industry, for if that is not done now and the conflict is begun on Saturday by the time it is finished the whole position will be changed and rendered infinitely worse than it is to-day.

THE AMENDOLA AFFAIR.

RECENT SPEECHES IN SICILY.

The Times, in a leading article, says:—The boldest apologists of Fascism find some difficulty in excusing the attack upon Signor Amendola, the leader of the "Aventine" opposition, which was committed a few days ago. No full report of the speech in which Signor Farinacci spoke at Naples of the outrage on Signor Amendola has yet reached us. We have, however, a summary, and so have reports of some of his recent addresses in Sicily. At Naples he said that it was time for their adversaries to realise that the present "comedy"—it is hardly a comedy for the victims of Fascist bludgeons—could not last. The provocations they gave could not be tolerated any longer. A reaction had already broken out—this was spoken on the night after the Tuscan outrage—"a reaction which the Fascist party cannot deplore."

"Those who attempt to obstruct our way," he added, "will be treated as traitors." The day before the outrage the Cremona Nuova, the organ of the General Secretary of the Fascist Party, showed some apprehension of the possible effects of his Sicilian eloquence. There could be no acquittance, it foretold with much prescience that some Fascist, "in a moment of exasperation, might not feel himself justified in defending his faith and his chiefs." Doubtless, the fifteen who fell upon Signor Amendola felt that they were so justified. He expressly confirmed in one of these speeches the fact which we have always maintained, that his appointment as General Secretary of the Fascist Party "was intended to signify the end of an equivocation." It has done so very effectually, and, the Amendola outrage is an illustration of the sense in which it has dispelled any doubts which may have lingered as to the methods on which Fascism continues to rely for the enforcement of its authority.

CARDINAL BEGIN'S FUNERAL.

60,000 PEOPLE PRESENT.

The Quebec Correspondent of The Times writes:—The body of Cardinal Begin, Archbishop of Quebec and Primate of the Roman Catholic Church in Canada, was removed from the Archbishop's Palace to the Quebec Basilica between lines of Guards and crowds which made the streets almost impassable. The body was carried by six priests of the diocese of Quebec, while Mr. Perodeau, Lieutenant-Governor; Mr. Taschereau, the Premier; members of the Federal Cabinet, representatives of foreign Governments, and of other churches walked in the procession. Among the public men who attended the funeral was Mr. Meighen, Leader of the Conservative Party. The Roman Catholic Church of the United States was represented by Cardinal Hayes, Archbishop of New York, and the Secretary, Monsignor Donahue.

The body of the late Cardinal was visited daily by thousands of mourners, and it is estimated that 60,000 people attended the funeral.

THE SUEZ CANAL.

A QUESTION OF PROTECTION.

The Daily Express states that an important decision regarding the defence of the Suez Canal has been made. The Committee of Imperial Defence, which was referred the question of British military policy in Egypt, have reported on the necessity of maintaining an adequate force of British troops on the banks of the Canal and adequate naval patrols on the Canal itself. To protect these troops and patrols from possible aggression from the land, a British force must be maintained continuously in Cairo.

It is recommended that the number of troops now there should not be reduced in any way. In justification of this policy the Committee point out that without the Cairo force it would be difficult, if not impossible, to ensure the safety of the Canal patrols.

In these circumstances it is urged that to make further political concessions to Egyptian Nationalist agitators would endanger the position which the Suez Canal holds in Imperial lines of communication, mercantile and strategic.

The Cabinet have accepted this report, and it will now form the basis of British policy in the Near East.

DAY-TO-DAY CONTRACTS IN THE MINES.

The Labour Correspondent of The Times writes:—In several of the coalfields the owners have given notice that during August there will be no alteration in the existing conditions of employment, and that work may be continued on day-to-day contracts. Should there be no general settlement of the dispute before the end of the week this action will be of little avail if in other districts the owners do not suspend the operations of notices involving wage reductions. Present indications are that the miners will act as a body, and that a stoppage in Durham or South Wales would mean a stoppage throughout the country.

The owners' original proposals do not appear, at present to have been withdrawn, and, on the other hand, Mr. Cook was talking yesterday of a refusal to accept any agreement that would not in the future provide wages for the miners at least equal to the 1914 rates, plus an increase equivalent to the rise in the cost of living. These attitudes do not promise peace.

COLOUR BAR BILL.

CONFLICT IN THE SOUTH AFRICAN PARLIAMENT.

CAPE TOWN, Sunday.

Leading members of Parliament, interviewed with regard to the situation resulting from the conflict between the Senate and the House of Assembly in the Colour Bar Bill and the Electoral Bill, declared it an exaggeration to state that it amounted to a constitutional crisis.

General Hertzog admitted that the Senate had the right to act as it did, but blamed General Smuts for "packing the Senate with strong partisans." The Government would consider the position and find a remedy.

Owing to the provision of a joint sitting of the two Houses in the event of another rejection, it is predicted that the bill would become law within nine months.—(Reuter.)

COAL CRISIS.

PREMIER'S BUSY DAY.

SUBSIDY PLAN?

NOTICES MAY BE SUSPENDED.

RAILWAYMEN TO HELP THE MINERS.

MR. BALDWIN, who returned to Downing street late on Saturday night, spent practically the whole of yesterday in preparing for his meeting with the Committee of the Trades Union Congress this morning. An early visitor to No. 10 was Mr. W. C. Bridgeman, the First Lord of the Admiralty, who has been acting as Government mediator in the dispute, and who is to preside over a joint meeting of miners and owners at the Ministry of Labour on Wednesday.

The First Lord had been with the Prime Minister for half an hour when they were joined by Lord Stamfordham, the King's Private Secretary, who walked across from Buckingham Palace. The three conferred for nearly an hour and then Mr. Bridgeman left. He looked very thoughtful and preoccupied as he walked slowly to his club.

Lord Stamfordham remained with the Premier for some time longer, and the Press Association learns, was placed in possession of the full details of the present situation of the dispute.

The Prime Minister has had every relevant fact and figure got out in readiness for his meeting to-day, which is to be the opening of his personal effort to "throw every ounce of weight into the scales of peace." During his stay at Knowsley Mr. Baldwin was furnished by telephone with a full report of Friday's developments.

The report of the court of inquiry was yesterday, it is understood, presented in manuscript to Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, the Minister of Labour, and by him to the Prime Minister. Sir Arthur told a Press representative that the report would be issued without unnecessary delay, but it was gathered that possibly actual publication would be postponed until after the Trade Union Congress Committee has been to Downing street.

There is a persistent report that the Government is considering the granting of a "temporary subsidy" to the coal industry to enable the present difficulties to be overcome. The court of inquiry is credited in some quarters with having made a recommendation to this effect, but strict secrecy is being observed in official circles as to the report.

The Government's efforts, both before and "behind the scenes," are to be maintained in order that, if possible, there may be a conciliatory atmosphere for Wednesday's meeting.

MR. COOK'S STATEMENT.

"Judging by the remark of the various statesmen, including the Prime Minister, Mr. A. J. Cook, the Miners' Secretary, said yesterday: "There is very little hope of a peaceful settlement, as they have nothing better to offer or suggest than that the miners should compromise in the present position.

"We have made the issue quite clear. War has been declared against us. The notices given and the proposals that followed prove that conclusively. Further, the proposals posted at the pit-heads declaring the wages and conditions that will operate in the pits from August 1 onwards prove that the owners are bent on war.

"Therefore, it is wise for me, as Secretary, to re-state the position that the Chairman, Mr. Herbert Smith, has put forward on behalf of the miners—that there can be no agreement that will mean either longer hours or a penny piece per day reduction in wages, and further, we shall not accept any agreement that will not in the future provide wages for the working-men in the mines at least equal to 1914, plus the increase in the cost of living.

"That is a pledge given by Mr. Herbert Smith and myself on behalf of a million miners, and their dependents—five million souls in all look to us to see that that pledge is carried out. We shall not betray our trust."

"On Wednesday we have a meeting," Mr. Cook continued, "but there is no use misleading the British public into believing that there is a possibility of peace—there is too wide a breach between us and the owners' proposals, which would mean slavery. Our fight is for the right to live, and unless the British Government take full courage and use the power they have, then in five days' time there will not be a ton of coal produced in this country, and the greatest struggle in the history and annals of industrialism will start. What the end will be no man can prophesy. It is for the Government to demand the withdrawal of the notices and proposals.

OTHER VIEWS.

MINERS' M.P. SUGGESTS A WAY OUT.

Mr. G. A. Spencer, M.P., one of the principal officials of the Notts Miners' Association, speaking yesterday, said that the only coal districts that were paying were in the Eastern area and Somerset. If, therefore, the demand were made for reduction in either of those districts, it would be evidence of cupidity of the owners, rather than of economic necessities. He thought that the first action necessary was in the direction of a frank discussion between owners and the men's representatives, for either side to permit dignity or anything else to stand in the way of an early meeting for the exchange of opinion and a careful examination of each other's case, would, under the circumstances, be nothing short of criminal folly.

He suggested that a suspension of the notices should be agreed to so as to permit negotiation proceedings under conditions less electrified with the present currents of suspicion, mistrust and ill-will. The time between now and Friday was too short to allow of a settlement being reached, but no sane person wanted a stoppage.

"CONTINUE THE AGREEMENT."

Mr. E. Shinwell, in a speech yesterday, suggested that the existing agreement should continue for a further period, and that in the meantime the Government could ascertain what financial assistance was required to re-establish the unremunerative pits suffering from obsolete equipment. It was imperative that drastic powers should be applied as regards price and manner of coal distribution.

"WE HAVE GOT TO FIGHT."

Mr. Herbert Smith, President of the Miners' Federation, at Darfield, South Yorks, said:—

"I am not prepared to agree to a single cent reduction in wages, nor a single moment extension of working hours. If the General Council of the Trade Union Congress stand by us we shall win through; but, even if that body fails us, we have got to fight this time, whether we like it or not. I would rather fight and lose than not fight at all.

INTERNATIONAL ACTION.

Mr. A. J. Cook, speaking at Parliament Hall Fields, London, last night, said that he was going to France to meet an International Committee. He would meet there the International Transport Workers' Federation representatives, and ensure that in the struggle there would be unity of action with their comrades on the Continent. There would be no blacklegging one country with another in the struggle.

"INFERNAL PROPOSALS."

Mr. Stephen Walsh, M.P., ex-Secretary for War, speaking at Wigan, said that no body of men with any sense of responsibility or any desire to be fair in their dealings with their employés could have put forward such infernal proposals.

"RAILWAYMEN MUST JOIN."

Mr. J. Bromley, M.P., General Secretary of the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, speaking in London last night, said that had all the unions stood together at the crisis ten years ago there would have been no trouble to-day. If the railwaymen stood aside in the mining dispute the locomotive men would suffer, for the train services would be greatly restricted owing to the lack of coal. The Society's funds would be drawn upon in any case, and it would be much better to spend it in going into the fight with their comrades. Their duty was to line up with the miners.

"NOT A PICNIC."

Mr. C. T. Cramp, the Industrial Secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, at Woodford, Northants, yesterday said that the miners were in a desperate position, and it was proposed to the Transport Unions that if a stoppage occurred they should shift no coal. The Associated Society and the N.U.R. both came to the decision, without leaving the room, that they would handle no coal in the event of a stoppage. If men were suspended or dismissed for refusing to handle the coal, the whole of the railwaymen would be embroiled. Let them not imagine that it was a kind of picnic or holiday. It would be the nearest approach they had seen to a general industrial upheaval, and no man could say what would be the ultimate outcome.

PRINCE HENRY'S NEW ROLE.

"A SCOTTISH MUNICIPAL SIAMESE TWIN."

The Freedom of Edinburgh was last Saturday conferred upon Prince Henry, who afterwards fulfilled a number of public engagements in the city.

The Lord Provost said that Edinburgh was anxious to extend and strengthen its association with the Royal line. The Edinburgh burgess roll already contained the names of King Edward, King George and the Prince of Wales.

Prince Henry replied to the presentation in a humourous speech. "I doubt," he said, "whether you realise the delicate position I now occupy. Last spring I became a citizen of Glasgow; to-day, I have become a Freeman of Edinburgh; so I am a kind of Scottish Siamese twin. (Laughter.)

"I feel a little anxious about the perilous possibilities of the situation. I am told there is a degree of friendly rivalry between the two great Scottish cities. I hope that this rivalry will not develop in me. I am, however, comforted by the knowledge that another son of your great University has confessed that he has a somewhat similar dual personality, and finds it rather advantageous than otherwise.

"Sir James Barrie has very definitely informed us that his twins Maconochie and Jeems—(laughter)—get on exceedingly well together, so why should I experience any difficulty in maintaining friendly relations between my Edinburgh self and my Glasgow self, between Princes street and Sauchiehall street?" (Loud laughter.)

EMIGRATION DROP.

FEWER PERSONS LEAVING BRITAIN FOR THE DOMINIONS.

Comparisons between the numbers of migrants proceeding to other parts of the British Empire for permanent settlement in the years 1913 and 1924 are given in a written Parliamentary answer by Mr. Amery, Dominions Secretary.

The figures are as follow:—

	1913.	1924.
British North America (Canada and Newfoundland)	164,566	47,194
Australia	44,428	30,304
New Zealand	11,809	8,740
South Africa	375	649
Other parts of the Empire...	2,343	2,026

According to Mr. Amery, no financial assistance towards migration was given by the Government in 1913. The total expenditure of the Government in the financial year 1924-25 under agreed schemes arranged with Overseas Governments, under the Empire Settlement Act, 1922, was £439,051 in respect of assistance to migrants proceeding to Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

EMBEZZLEMENT.

EX-RATE COLLECTOR FOUND GUILTY.

At the County Derry Assizes, before Mr. Justice Wilson, on Saturday, William James Wilson, a former rate collector for Limavady No. 2 District, was charged with having embezzled £635 6s. 10d. and £38 15s. He pleaded not guilty.

David Vine, clerk in charge of the Rates Department of the County Council, said that the prisoner had been a rate collector for two years. His books showed that he had collected £1,078 11s. 10d. A receipt was produced afterwards for £443 5s., leaving a balance of £635 6s. 10d. unaccounted for. A further sum of £38 15s. was not accounted for. On March 12 witness took over the books, and Wilson was suspended. Witness added that the full amount of the warrant, less £23 lodged by the prisoner, was lodged by the sureties, to whom was returned a sum to cover the prisoner's salary and irrecoverable rates.

The prisoner, giving evidence, said that in the beginning of March his brother withdrew his guarantee, and before he had time to make fresh arrangements he was arrested.

The jury found him guilty and he was put back.

The Polish Government has signed a contract for the lease of the Polish match monopoly to the International Match Corporation for twenty years.

"A MORTAL BLOW" TO INDUSTRY.

MR. BALDWIN ON THE COAL DISPUTE.

WOULD CAUSE MISERY TO MILLIONS.

Mr. Baldwin, addressing an audience estimated at 50,000, in Knowsley Park, Lord Derby's residence, last Saturday, referred to the coal crisis. He said:—

We have to-day hundreds of pits closed. We are threatened with a conflict between owners and miners, each of them with a very strong case, each, perhaps, more apt to regard their own case than that of the other side.

But all the time the financial position of the industry is growing worse, and we are watching at the moment changes in the markets of the world; Italy turning to Russia, Germany and the United States selling in Southern Europe, and South America against us.

My dominant wish when I set up the Coal Inquiry was not to confuse the issues or to prejudice them, but to clarify them, that all of us might be helped to understand what is at stake. Where public opinion is the final arbiter there can be no case that is not helped by ventilation. I thought it might act as a fan and circulate some fresh, cool air into the workings of over-heated brains and tempers.

A stoppage at this time in any main industry is not, indeed, to deal a mortal blow at the country, for we have too much life and energy in us for that to be true; but it will cause damage and havoc which will spread far beyond any one trade, and far beyond the home of the man in that trade.

That a fight will of itself produce fair and just conditions is at least doubtful; but that it will produce suffering and misery to millions is absolutely certain.

WORLD TRADE.

Referring to world trade, the Premier added:—

Many of the currency troubles which have paralysed international trade are now on a fair way to settlement. German money is on a stable basis. She has balanced her Budget and is paying her dues under the Dawes plan.

The world is gradually returning to a fixed money standard, and the passing from the unsettled exchanges to that fixed standard inevitably means a certain amount of strain and pressure, as the nations of the world are finding the new competitive levels of prices.

It is a question to-day of comparative cost, and the over-ruling factor in checking the growth of overseas trade is the great increase in productive and distributive costs, which are reflected in high selling prices.

All our basic industries, coal, iron, steel, engineering and shipbuilding, are affected. It is the explanation of by far the largest part of our unemployment figures. Our firms find it difficult to get orders at prices which will permit them to keep in business and avoid bankruptcy.

OTHER POINTS.

The Premier's other points in his speech were:—

The Cruisers.—We have lately had to weigh with the utmost care in a time of difficulty the claims of economy and the claims of national defence. We have succeeded in reconciling those two claims, and I want to say here that nothing could have exceeded the spirit in which the Cabinet attacked that prbolem, the will that existed to come to agreement.

The ultimate decision they took was unanimous, and I dismissed with contempt the suggestions that I have read here and there that there were dissensions and intrigues among a body of men whose loyalty to their party and to their leader makes me proud to lead them and to serve them.

Pensions Bill.—I hope and believe that in the next year or two when the full effects of the Pensions Bill will be felt that the electorate of this country will agree that the first year of the new Parliament so far from being barren has produced what will be looked back upon as one of the greatest measures of social amelioration which has been passed for many years.

Security Pact.—The German reply to the French Note has arrived. I recognise its conciliatory intention. I believe that the will exists in Germany to-day and among the Allies that it is most necessary that no time should be lost and that a discussion should proceed without interruption.

Germany is still apprehensive when she speaks of her peril as being a disarmed nation with armed neighbours. But she is entitled to be fully heard on these matters when she is a member of the League of Nations, and she can then confront the Great Powers with no unnecessary delay in proceeding to consider the question of disarmament, which is inherent in the covenant of the League of Nations itself.

China.—The Washington Treaties have now been ratified by all the Powers concerned, and we are prepared, and we shall be only too glad to appoint our delegates, and to push on the work of a conference with China for the discussion and settlement of the questions at issue.

BALTIC CONFERENCE.

ESTHONIAN MINISTER IN LONDON.

M. Pusta, Esthonian Foreign Minister, who arrived in London yesterday, in conversation with Reuter's representative said:—"I am very pleased to have this opportunity to exchange views with the British Foreign Minister, who is to be one of my colleagues at Geneva.

"Esthonia convened the Baltic Conference, which is to meet at Reval on August 25th. The first item on its programme is the question of security, and we hope to reach an agreement on this subject that will satisfy the Eastern European States. Naturally, the questions of the Geneva Protocol and the German security proposals will be closely allied. These must come up at the Geneva assembly, and it is necessary that the Baltic States shall be agreed on their attitude.

"Of course, we know what happened as regards the Geneva Protocol, but the security negotiations and the German proposal have brought about a new atmosphere which, possibly, will lead to the finding of a new and better way to solve the question of European securities.

"As regards Russia, it is simply absurd to say that the Baltic States are planning aggressive action against the Soviet or anyone else, and such stories are only invented for the purpose of causing excitement and jealousy. Communistic propaganda is a matter for all States to consider, and is being very closely watched by us."

FIRE AT ROTHERHAM.

PUBLIC LIBRARY DESTROYED.

The public library at Rotherham was completely destroyed by fire early yesterday morning, the estimated loss being between £25,000 and £30,000. The library and the adjoining public baths were built to commemorate Queen Victoria's Jubilee in 1887. Most of the library books were destroyed, but many volumes which could not have been replaced were saved. The reading room was extensively damaged by water.

It is thought that the fire, which originated near the top of the building, was caused by the fusing of an electric wire. The baths were saved, and the attendant, who took over his duties only a few days ago, his wife and four children were rescued in their night attire.

THE DUKE'S TOBACCO.

The Duke of Devonshire, though still on the sick list, has, so far, recovered from his recent illness that his doctor told him last Saturday (says a London contemporary) that he could smoke a pipe, but not cigars and cigarettes. The Duke, who is on the executive council of the British Empire Exhibition, sent post haste to Wembley for a selection of pipes and a stock of tobacco.

DEAN WELLDON'S ESCAPE.

CHASED BY ANGRY MINERS.

The general feeling in Durham (says a Press Association message) is that a section of the miners have done their cause considerable harm by the attack on Bishop Welldon, the Dean of Durham, last Saturday.

While Mr. Ramsay Macdonald was speaking the Dean was seen approaching the platform to address a temperance meeting when the gala speeches were finished. He was jostled by the crowd, who rushed him to the river's edge. The police, however, commandeered a motor boat which was passing at the time and conveyed the Dean to a place of safety.

Interviewed yesterday, the Dean said that he preferred not to say anything about the matter, because he was taking no part in the gala, but intended to address a temperance demonstration when the gala speeches had finished. The miners' leaders, seen yesterday, had nothing to say on the subject for the present.

ADVICE TO THE MEN.

The Dean, addressing the Miners' Gala Service in Durham Cathedral, said that he did not begrudge the miners any wages, however high, which it was possible to pay them. Neither employers nor employed should spare any effort to avoid the supreme disaster of industrial warfare, which was un-Christian. Was there no better remedy than industrial warfare? How were the working classes to tell the nations of the world that they must settle their dispute by pacific means if they refused to settle their disputes otherwise than by force?

He urged the miners not to abandon their rights, but to ask themselves before God whether there was not another way than plunging the nation into misery, from which, if it recovered it all, it would only recover by gradual and painful degrees.

"A FOOLISH ACTION."

Mr. E. Shinwell, the Minister for Mines in the Labour Government, addressing a miners' demonstration at Chester le Street, near Durham, yesterday, referred to the incident.

"While we deplore the incident," said Mr. Shinwell, "the action of the Dean in proceeding to the racecourse was foolish in the circumstances, but not inconsistent with his previous utterances. Little blame attached to the miners, for, with no other means of curbing the tongue of a dean, it was the sort of thing they might be expected to do."

Nearly 200,000 miners were attending the demonstration. During speeches from the platform pointed references were made to a recent article on the coal situation by the Dean in a London newspaper. All the speakers, including Mr. Ramsay Macdonald and Mr. Shinwell, the late Minister of Mines, united in telling the Dean very plainly that he ought not under any circumstances to intervene in the coal struggle.

An atmosphere was created in which the crowd began to show an ugly temper, and a banner was raised on which were the words: "To hell with bishops and deans; we want a living wage."

With no previous intimation of the bitter feelings which had been aroused, the Dean of Durham and Canon Lillingston came on the scene at that moment.

"Here he is," cried the crowd, and in a few moments the Dean, who had got to within a few yards of the platform from which Mr. Ramsay Macdonald was speaking, found himself in the centre of an angry mass of people.

Something like a concerted rush of many thousands of miners took place towards him. He was jostled hither and thither and pelted with all manner of missiles.

"To the river," went up the cry, and in a twinkling the dean was hustled over the racecourse to the water's edge.

By this time those in the crowd who had kept their heads attempted to stem the rush.

Dr. Welldon was now within a few steps from the edge of the water. The police were practically powerless, but seeing a motor-launch they hailed the owner and, while a group of strong men kept back the crowd, hauled Bishop Welldon into the boat.

The launch then dashed down stream, followed by an angry crowd on the banks, shouting and booing, but they were soon outdistanced. At the University boat landing, in comparative solitude, the dean left the boat, showing distinct traces of his alarming experience. He smiled, however, under his agitation, as he remarked: "I have lost my new silk hat and umbrella." He returned to the deanery at once.

£500 FROM RUSSIA.

FOR PEASANTS IN WEST OF IRELAND.

Mr. George Lansbury, M.P., attended by Mrs. Helen Crawford, Secretary of the Workers' International Relief, met the members of the Irish section of that body at Parnell square, Dublin, yesterday, the Russian Red Cross for relief in the West of Ireland.

Mr. P. T. Daly presided, and on behalf of the Irish Section of the International Relief welcomed Mr. Lansbury and Mrs. Crawford. Through them he thanked their Russian colleagues for the cheque, which would be expended as the donors desired.

Mr. Lansbury, in handing over the cheque, said that the Workers' International Relief was solely concerned with relieving distress wherever it was prevalent to whatever extent their funds would permit them. Their Vice-Presidents and committee were of the most cosmopolitan character, bonded together in the cause of charity. The gift that he had handed over was a gift from the Russian peasantry to the Irish peasantry, and he hoped that it would help in some way, however small, to alleviate the sufferings of some of their comrades in the West of Ireland.

Mrs. Crawford spoke of the work of the Relief, and said it was regrettable that certain sections of the Irish labour movement regarded them with suspicion. When the Irish Section was started the Irish Labour Party and the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union were approached, together with other Labour bodies, to act on the committee. They had not responded to their invitation, and she expressed the hope that even now they would come in with their colleagues. Efforts had been made to discredit some of the members of the Committee, but she assured everyone concerned that relief work only was carried on, and that no member of the Committee ever got any monetary return for his or her services. James Larkin never got a farthing out of the funds, but had done a lot to help the movement forward. Those who had been slandered at one time thought of taking proceedings, but as money subscribed for relief could not be wasted on litigation no action was taken.

Mr. Farrelly, Hon. Secretary; Mr. Sutton and Mrs. Sheehy Skeffington expressed thanks for the gift.

VOLUNTEERS AND SINN FEIN.

Among the documents put in evidence by Superintendent Hunt during the prosecution at Athlone of a man under the Treason Act was an order dated April 22, 1925, from "Headquarters, Midland Battalion," and addressed "to all ranks." It directed volunteers to withdraw all co-operation and support from the Sinn Fein movement and concentrate upon volunteer training and development.

MUNSTER.

Nuns as Nursing Sisters.—At a meeting of the County Limerick Board of Health on Saturday a letter was received from the Ministry of Local Government stating that the Board should fix a more reasonable scale of salaries for the nuns employed as nursing sisters in the County Home, Newcastle-West, as £130 a year was considered too high in view of the salaries paid in other homes. A communication from the matron of the Home stated that there were only three sisters for a population of over 500, and that the joint salaries received were not sufficient to maintain the Home, which had to be subsidised by the parent house, St. Mary's Convent. The Board decided to retain the sisters at the existing salaries and to appoint an additional sister at a similar salary.

Youghal Technical School.—At a meeting of Youghal Urban Council a letter was read from the manager, Provincial Bank, stating that his directors had sanctioned a loan of £700 in connection with the demolition of the old endowed school and the erection of a new technical school, the amount to be repaid in ten years at a rate of ½ per cent. under Irish bank rate, not lower than 4 per cent. The Council expressed satisfaction with the result.

Visitor's Generous Act.—At Youghal District Court two girls, named Kiely and McCarthy, admitted stealing a number of silk stockings, handkerchiefs, tooth brushes, etc., the property of Miss Rita Whelan, a visitor, and were let out under the Probation of Offenders Act. LIVERPOOL'S GREAT CATHEDRAL.

WORK BEGUN ON THE SECOND PART.

A further stage in the great task of building Liverpool Cathedral was reached yesterday, when the ceremony of breaking ground for the foundations of the central space and the tower and the western transepts was performed.

The historic occasion was marked by a ceremony which was most picturesque. While a crowded congregation was taking part in the Service within that portion of the Cathedral which, just twelve months ago, was consecrated in the presence of the King and Queen, a procession passed out to the adjoining site, where the second section is to be erected. The procession was headed by the Bishop of Liverpool (Dr. David), the President of the Cathedral Building Committee (the Earl of Derby), the Chairman (Sir Frederick Radcliffe), the architect (Sir Giles G. Scott), the Lord Mayor of Liverpool, the Lady Mayoress, and the clergy and combined choirs.

When all were assembled on the site, Lord Derby delivered a brief address. He said that they had as yet accomplished but a third of their task of building the Cathedral. For that which remained to be done they depended, not only on their own labours, on the genius of their architect, and on the skill and diligence of their builders and craftsmen, but on the generosity of the public of Liverpool and the diocese, and of men of goodwill at home and abroad.

Following the command of the Chairman of the Building Committee: "Now let the ground be broken, and let the work of building the Cathedral Church be now resumed," and the further injunction of the architect: "Now let the work proceed," there was a rattling of spades on the marked ground where the foundations of the piers and the central tower are to be made. The spade work was vigorously performed by twelve chosen representatives of the deaneries of the diocese.

POSTMAN ROBBED.

From Our Correspondent.

CARRICK-ON-SHANNON, Saturday.

A report just received by the Postmaster at Carrick-on-Shannon from the sub-office at Glangevlin (Dowra) states that on Thursday evening, while a relief postman was returning with the change of a money order, value for £30, for the payment of old age pensions, a man, armed with a rifle, held him up and took the money from him.

The Civic Guards have detained a man in connection with the affair.

The village of Kaza, on the German-Polish frontier, was destroyed by a forest fire, and several other villages endangered by the rapidly spreading flames had to be evacuated by the inhabitants.

RUSSIA'S EXPORT TRADE.

RETURN OF KILKENNY BACON EXPERT.

Mr. James Landy, a well-known County Kilkenny man, who has been identified with the bacon trade for several years, portion of which has been spent in China and America, has just returned to Kilkenny, after a nine months' stay in Russia. The journey from Moscow to London was accomplished in 36 hours. Mr. Landy left Moscow on Wednesday, 15th July, at 7 a.m., in a monoplane, and flew to Smolensk and thence to Konigsberg, via Kovno. He then proceeded by train to Berlin and Amsterdam, and concluded the journey in a Handley Page aeroplane, arriving in London after a three hours' flight at seven o'clock on the evening of Thursday, the 16th. He was in the air fourteen hours altogether.

Mr. Landy is an official of the Union Cold Storage Company, London, and went to Russia at the invitation of the Soviet Government, which sought his advice as a specialist, with a view to the development of the export trade from Russia.

LONDON TRAMWAYS CHIEF.

MR. J. K. BRUCE AS SUCCESSOR TO MR. FELL.

Mr. J. K. Bruce, who has been acting general manager of the L.C.C. tramways since the retirement of Mr. Aubrey Llewellyn Coventry Fell, is recommended by the Tramways Committee for promotion as permanent general manager, at a salary of £2,000 a year.

Mr. Bruce's present salary is £1,500 a year, and an allowance of £150 for his service as acting general manager, making, with bonus, £1,855.

Fifty-three years of age, Mr. Bruce was in charge of the tramway system for nearly a year during the war, and had 15 years' experience of the working of the L.C.C. system. During the last six months he has introduced several improvements which have, the committee states, effected considerable economy.

The proposal will be considered by the Council to-morrow.

SIKH SHRINE DISPUTE.

FREE STATE TRADE.

management, as pertained to public expenditure, business would be able to bear the national burden. He did not mean by that that no effort would be made to reduce national expenditure.

Dealing with the Senate elections, the President said that they would have had a much less formidable list of candidates if the outgoing Senators had submitted their names for consideration by the Dail and Senate. They preferred, however, to be entered on the panel as retiring Senators. It should be remembered that those Senators had accepted responsibility and discharged their duties during trying and troublesome years. Among those nineteen would be found many held in good repute in various walks of life in Ireland, those who, during many eventful years, toiled in the interests of the State, giving of their best according to their profession or business pursuit, and assisting as nation builders.

There were those who had made valuable contributions to the industrial life of the State, practical industrialists reputably known in the business life of the country; and those who, perhaps less known, had accepted in good faith the change which had taken place, and whose assistance in legislation and other work in the Oireachtas would, perhaps, entitle them to the designation, "More Irish than the Irish themselves."

WHAT LIST REVEALS.

An examination of the list of candidates showed people drawn from the most important activities in the country, and an examination of their service would show that sense of citizenship and acceptance of their duty qualifying them for most serious and, he hoped, generous consideration. He had examined the seventy-six names, and found twenty or thirty names of persons who had been prominently identified—some closely identified—with the Irish-Ireland movement.

The President went on to talk of emigration. The Government, he said, had been blamed for emigration. Did the responsibility rest entirely on the Government? Should the Government be asked to do everything? Would the person who made the charge submit his own possessions for examination to show the measure of his support of employment in Ireland? The Government regretted emigration, and it had taken steps to stem it as far as lay in its power. What steps had its critics taken?

A POSITIVE POLICY.

"We have a positive policy," he declared. "We seek to gather, in the national work, citizens who differed with us in the past and who opposed us bitterly. We find the vast majority of them now willing to realise the duties and responsibilities of citizenship. I find amongst that list of candidates for the Senate people drawn from most walks of life in the State. Their candidature is evidence of their belief in the State, of their wish to be identified with its life, and of their desire to participate in the making of materials for nation building.

"Our own immediate concern is with the selection of suitable persons for election—persons who will be thoroughly representative of the Irish nation and of the national revival with which both before and since the Treaty we have been so intimately associated. There are more than nineteen suitable persons, taking into account the varied representation afforded by proportional representation.

"We did not ask for 'P.R.' It was initiated here to counteract the big Sinn Fein movement, which, it was anticipated, would sweep the country at the Local Government Elections in 1920, to still leave minorities with representation."

Some writers in the Press, he continued, had discovered that it did not suit the country. It was possible that that defect would not have been discovered if the nominations had been in the hands of the critics.

FULLY REPRESENTATIVE.

"We cannot," he declared, "be helpless and hopeless. There are in the list some 12 farmers and 15 business men. There are professional men, landed proprietors, representatives of Gaelic scholars, of ex-Servicemen and University professors, and, as well, one of the greatest lawyers of the day. One can say with truth that the various interests in the country have representation in these nominations, and it is right that they should have an opportunity of electing to the Senate persons upon whom they can rely for the safety, the well-being and the progress of the Irish nation.

DIVORCE.

The President concluded by saying that with regard to divorce in the Free State and the allegation that the Government was unfairly treating minorities, he would like to read for them what the Church Times of England had to say on the subject. He then quoted an editorial in the Church Times dated 20th February, 1925, and commented, "that is the answer to the Irish Times."

DOCTORS AND THE ARMY.

A PROPOSED BOYCOTT.

The British Medical Association Conference at Bath, yesterday, decided to impose a boycott upon recruiting for the Royal Army Medical Corps until various matters under negotiation are settled to the satisfaction of the Association. The principal injustice alleged concerned the retired pay of majors, which, it was stated, could be reduced in accordance with the cost of living to below pre-war level. Dr. J. A. MacDonald, of West Somerset, who seconded the resolution, said that the dealings of the Government in regard to the Army and Navy had been a perfect disgrace.

ATTACK ON ITALIAN DEPUTY.

ASSAILANTS UNKNOWN.

The newspapers report from Florence that in the neighbourhood of Pistoia some unknown individuals attacked with sticks the Deputy, Signor Amendola, and some friends of his as they were driving from Monte Catini to Florence.

Signor Amendola and his friends managed to drive on to Pistoia, where they received medical attention, and it is expected that they will have quite recovered in eight or ten days.—(Reuter.)

THE POST OFFICE.

The Daily Chronicle, referring to Post Office trading, says:—The Post Office is one of those great public institutions to whose ways we have been so long accustomed that we accept it almost as we accept the weather, holding no one responsible for its vagaries. Not only is this big business in the unique position of being controlled by a member of the Government, it is also in the curious position of being further directly controlled by the Chancellor of the Exchequer. The Chancellor has the power to forbid all sorts of business developments, and he annexes the profits. Its estimated profits for the current year are over four millions; Mr. Churchill pockets them. Any tax imposed on the Post Office is a tax on communications, which are the very life-blood of trade. No tax could be more pernicious. For this reason all the profits of this Department ought to be used on improving the services or cheapening them.

The Daily Telegraph says:—It is gratifying that the Postmaster-General should recognise the importance of pushing on development in the interests of the business community. He insists on the "general policy of development that the service shall pay its way and stand on its own feet without subsidy either from the taxpayer or from any other postal service." There will be no temptation to differ on that matter, but the consideration which impresses the business man is that in this respect, as well as others, the Post Office enjoys a valuable commercial monopoly which could be let to private enterprise for a very large sum, and the commercial community is not yet satisfied that the organisation is such as to permit the public to reap the full benefit.

HUNTER-BREEDING IN IRELAND.

KEEN INQUIRY FOR GOOD ANIMALS.

FOREIGN BUYERS IN THE PROVINCES.

From Our Agricultural Correspondent.

At recent shows of horses throughout the country hunters have made a remarkably good display. This indication of a return to normal in Irish horse-breeding is encouraging, for local shows usually act as feeders to the Royal Dublin Society's annual Horse Show at Ballsbridge. Next week many of the animals that figured with success at provincial shows this season will come together in a final trial of strength. A considerable number will pass into the hands of new owners.

AMERICAN BUYERS.

I base this statement on the keen inquiry which has been experienced for well-bred hunters and saddle horses in centres noted for this branch of stock-breeding. The greatest demand for this type of horse appears to be coming from the United States and Canada. Agents from those countries have recently shown considerable activity in the provinces. No fewer than twenty hunters and show horses have been purchased by a buyer for North America during the past few weeks, and some big prices have been paid for top quality lots. In some cases the sale will not be completed until after the Dublin Horse Show, where some of the horses intended for export will make their farewell appearance.

There are also touring the country in search of horseflesh suited to their particular requirements buyers from Spain, Italy and other parts of the Continent, as well as Great Britain. I have not come into contact with French or German agents yet, but they are almost certain to be in attendance at Ballsbridge next week. The indications all point to a busy and profitable week for horse-owners, more especially for those who have stock of the right quality.

"MYSTERY TOUR" ACCIDENT.

CHAR-A-BANC OVERTURNS: THREE KILLED.

Four men were killed and several others seriously injured in a char-a-banc accident which occurred yesterday on Mendip Hills, twelve miles from Bristol.

A party of 24 men left Bristol in the morning for what a motor firm advertised as "a mystery tour." They went out over Mendips, and at noon turned in eastward towards Bath. At Harptree they passed the Wellsway Inn, and started down a very steep hill.

Somehow the char-a-banc got out of control, and, to the horror of the passengers, gained momentum. The driver jammed on the brakes, which locked, and the vehicle overturned, some of the passengers being pinned beneath it.

A motor cyclist hastened to the nearest telephone, and several doctors and ambulances from Bristol were soon on the spot.

Mr. Woodington, one of the passengers, was found dead, and his body was removed to a farmhouse near by. Others were removed to Bristol Hospital, where Joseph Hill and George Thomas Flower died subsequently.

A fourth man, William Roddick (aged 50), of Redfield, Bristol, died in hospital late last night.

TANGIER AND IRELAND.

A LEAF FROM FORGOTTEN HISTORY.

Morocco is far from Ireland, and Tangier is far from Dublin, yet there is a curious link between them. Dublin has a little street called Tangier lane, off Grafton street, and Tangier lane did not get its name by accident. The name, in fact, is a historic relic, for it commemorates an interesting episode in the relations of Ireland with the Fortress of Tangier, when Tangier was British.

Tangier came into the possession of England as portion of the dowry of Catherine of Braganza in 1662, when that princess married King Charles II. England at once proceeded to fortify Tangier.

• • • • • •

What is not generally known, however, is that the expense of maintaining the fortress was thrown on the Irish revenue at the time. In order to make some compensation to Ireland for this impost it was specially ordered that all necessaries for the soldiers garrisoned at Tangier, such as clothes, shirts, shoes, stockings, belts, etc., should "be always bought in Ireland and nowhere else, and that at as easy rates as may be"; the Lord Lieutenant being directed "to appoint some fit persons to supervise the buying of the said clothes and necessaries for the soldiers, so as the same may be furnished good in kind, and at the cheapest rates."

The garrison, too, was manned mainly with Irish officers and soldiers. An Irishman, Colonel Fitzgerald, was for a time Governor of the fortress, and altogether the happenings there were followed with the deepest interest in Ireland.

The expense of maintaining Tangier, however, was a severe strain on the slender resources of the Irish Exchequer, and complaints and protests against the impost were many and frequent. On the other hand, the Commons of England, in their address to the King in 1680, complained that "Tangier had been several times under Popish governors; that the supplies sent thither had been in a great part made up of Popish officers and soldiers, and that the Irish Papists had been the most countenanced and encouraged."

Ireland prayed to be relieved of the Tangier tax, and England prayed that Tangier might be relieved of the Irish soldiers; and the result was that Tangier was abandoned, and the fort demolished in 1683.

• • • • • •

Colonel Fitzgerald was Governor of Tangier during some of the hottest of the fighting with the neighbouring Moors. He rendered excellent service, and was most popular with the garrison.

A contemporary writer, referring to events in Tangier at the time, writes:—"An Irishman's light-heartedness must have been a man's best possession in Tangier. Shut up in a dull town, the open country occupied by enemies whom they were forbidden to attack, the Tangerines must have been wonderful people if they did not give way now and then to despondency. In addition to this they were miserably fed, for the Moors hindered them from growing any fresh food for themselves, and they were thus almost dependent on the salted supplies brought from England. We might have got supplies from Spain if the Spaniards had not been as anxious to starve us as the Moors. But the Duke of Medina Coeli forbade all traffic with us, and insolently proclaimed that, since the consent of Spain to the cession of Tangier had not been obtained, he should treat all Englishmen resident there as rebels to the Spanish Crown."

The name of the little street off Grafton street certainly has history wrapped up in it.

GREYSTONES CHURCH.

NEW BELL DEDICATED.

Yesterday morning, in the presence of a large congregation, the Most Rev. Dr. Gregg, Archbishop of Dublin, dedicated the new bell at Greystones Church.

The bell, which was cast to order in the foundry of Messrs. Byrne, James's street, Dublin, weighs four cwt., and is rich in tone.

The Service opened with the hymn "Jesus, where'er Thy people meet," after which the Archbishop proceeded to the main entrance and read the prayers dedicating the bell "to the glory of God and the service of His Church." Other hymns sung were "Thou God of Power and God of Love" and "Jerusalem the Golden."

COSSACKS FOR DUBLIN.

One hundred Cossacks will arrive in Dublin this week. They will be accompanied by their women folk, a choir of a hundred voices, a band, and fifty dancers. The Cossacks admittedly are the finest horsemen in the world, and their exhibitions in London, Paris, and elsewhere have been described as marvellous. They have engaged the Irish Rugby Football Union's grounds at Lansdowne road, and will give their first performance on Saturday.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE.

GOODWOOD.

LARGE AND SMALL STAKES.

PROSPECTS FOR THE STEWARDS' CUP.

ANOTHER DISPERSAL.

From Our Travelling Correspondent.

LONDON, Sunday Night.

The decision of Sir Edward and Lady Edgar to sell all their horses in training has to be noted with regret. It was only this year that Sid Edward bought the Tern Hill establishment from the executors of the late Mr. G. F. Kenyon, and Captain C. L. Davis remained there as his trainer, and to him was sent most of the horses which had previously been with Mr. Whitaker at St. Giles. Sir Edward Edgar only began to interest himself in racing since the war, and its chief attraction was steeplechasing. He bought practically all his animals in Ireland, and the question of price never stopped him when he wanted a horse.

Some of his purchases were a little unlucky. Mignault, for example, for whom he paid a large sum, has not so far contributed to his cost, but Silvo was a fortunate purchase at a not extravagant price. He owned him in partnership with Mr. Midwood, and although he failed in the Grand National, he won a number of races, and came into his own when he captured the Grand Steeplechase in Paris last month. Mount Etna, after he had won a couple of races, injured his back, but he has been successfully treated, and it is likely that he will prove himself a very good horse indeed during the coming season.

Sir Edward's retirement at this juncture is very unfortunate, for racing under National Hunt Rules is in a rather parlous condition, and a rich owner, who was always a good patron of the sport and a good buyer, can ill be spared. I understand that all his horses in training come up at the Newmarket Sales at the First October Meeting, and 'chasers such as White Park and Mount Etna are sure to be eagerly sought after. Speaking of the price of horses, I believe that the sum paid for Caravel by his Australian purchaser was £12,000.

The course of the season has brought us to the eve of Goodwood, which begins on Tuesday. It sounds like heresy to say so, but most people in their frank moments agree that Goodwood is rather over-rated. The course is splendid. The surroundings are all that the heart of man could desire; but the cost is prodigous, not only to the ordinary individual who has to pay his £2 10s. to go in on Cup day, which is Thursday, but to owners who run horses. If it were not for the social amenities most people would be inclined to think that Goodwood is not worth it.

Small Stakes at Goodwood.

In these days of big stakes the meeting is a long way behind the times. If one compares it with Ascot, for example, the Duke of Richmond fixture comes badly out of it. The comparison is not, perhaps, quite fair, because Ascot is unique, and its accessibility gives it a great advantage; but on the narrow lines on which it is conducted, Goodwood, without its traditions and its individual charm, would soon drop out of the Calendar. In the first day's programme, for example, there are two wretched selling races, each worth £200.

In the Ham Produce Stakes owners who nominate two and a half years beforehand have to pay £50 forfeit, and if they wish to run it costs them £100 each. The added money is a paltry £300. The conditions of the Gratwicke Stakes on the same afternoon are exactly the same, except that entries have to be made three and a half years before. To the Prince of Wales's Stakes, run on Thursday, there is no added money at all, this being a post sweepstake of £200 each. It is only in recent times that the Stewards' Cup has been made up in value to correspond with its reputation, and after being years at £300 there is 1,000 sovs. added nowadays. Even then the sum accruing to the owner of Tuesday's winner will be only £1,465.

It seems as if runners, except in the Stewards' Cup and a few of the handicaps, will not be numerous, for several of the weight-for-age races look like cutting up badly. There has been next to no market so far on the Stewards' Cup. This used to be a great betting event years ago, but there has not been this year a single transaction on the race worth mention. A cynical person who was at the call-over of the card a few days ago, noting the price of a certain horse, said that some one had put ninepence on him and that threepence of this was bad money. On Tuesday it is probable that 10 to 1 will be offered against the field, for the race has a very open complexion.

One can give a good chance to Dalmagarry, the three-year-old, of good class, who is not badly handicapped. The difficulty at the moment is one of securing a suitable jockey for him. It was hoped to get Smirke, but he is under his contract to ride Thistle Bud. Frank Bullock was approached yesterday, but he cannot accept the mount, so at present the colt is without a jockey. Archibald had been tentatively engaged for Jarvie, but now it is likely that Carslake will ride him. His chance can only be a fair one.

Purple Shade's Chance.

I believe that Purple Shade is a good deal fancied for the race and his chance, on his public form, can be easily seen. The race can be more fully dealt with on Tuesday when we shall have a more or less definite idea of the runners, but at present I am inclined to think that it will be won by a three-year-old. Only one horse of this age has won since the war, and that was Epinard. However, if we go back to the early years of this century we find second-season horses, like Dumbarton Castle in 1903, Melayr in 1904, Rocketter in 1906, Romney in 1907, Elmstead in 1908, Mediant in 1909, Braxted in 1911 and Lord Annandale in 1913 successful.

The record of three-year-olds in this race is, on the whole, a good one. I have mentioned the fact that runners in the weight for age races will not be numerous. Some of the two-year-old events are fairly promising; but it is hardly likely that we shall see a colt and a filly like Picaroon and Saucy Sue, both of whom may their first appearance at this meeting last year. I doubt if the Manton stable will produce a pair of novices like these this week, for the number of Taylor's runners at the meeting will be small.

It has, however, been decided to run Saucy Sue in the Nassau Stakes on Friday. She and Diomedes, who runs for the King George Stakes on Wednesday, will be the "star" attractions at the meeting. Few of the other horses of classic standard will be seen out. It is possible that Zambo will run for the Gordon Stakes on Friday, but this is by no means certain. This colt is likely to play a very prominent part in the St. Leger, so he will not be started unless there is a prospect of an easy race for him. Solario is engaged also in the Gordon Stakes, but it is very doubtful whether he will be sent to run.

Racing at Hurst Park.

We had some fair class racing at Hurst Park yesterday afternoon, where the going was remarkably good. Indeed, I have not seen for a long time a track with such a fine growth of green grass. If fields were not large in any event, there were always enough runners to make good sport. A comparatively easy victory in the Kingston Stakes has to be noted for the Irish horse, Killucan. He was disappointing, and seemed to be ungenerous for a long time after he came to this country, and after he had won a selling race at the Whitsuntide meeting at Manchester, Mr. Cottrill bought him for 300 guineas. He won an amateur's race at the Bibury Club, and came on here to beat All Green comfortably by a length and a half. At the present moment the son of Orpiment is useful. Vicot was not started for the Duchess of York Plate, and, in his absence, a shade of odds was laid on Tournesol, who had never won a race before. Taking the lead soon after entering the straight, he had no difficulty in beating Seradella and Runnymede by two lengths and a length.

Mrs. J. B. Joel's filly, Love Story, started favourite for the Henry VIII. Two-Year-Old Stakes, but she was amiss just before the race, and it is doubtful if she was much fancied by the stable. She was slowly off, and after Queen of the Foam had made the running for four furlongs, Volta's Pride took it up and beat Love Story by a length. Stanley Wootton had two easy winners at the meeting. Sweet Lomond, a filly by Honey Bee, who was bred by Mr. J. C. Sullivan, and sold at Doncaster for 610 guineas, ran away with the Two-Year-Old Selling Plate, and was bought in afterwards for 700 guineas. In the last race Wootton's Swagman also made all the running, and beat Gainscourt by a length.

GALTEE MORE.

PHŒNIX PARK.

A COUNTRY STABLE'S SUCCESS.

DOUBLE FOR MR. R. C. ROSS.

A pleasant afternoon's racing was provided at Phœnix Park on Saturday, and the showers which fell were more welcome than otherwise, since they had the effect of freshening the atmosphere, which had been rather sultry, as well as benefiting the going. A total of forty-nine runners was very satisfactory, and was a tribute to the reputation the course has for yielding good going at all times. The County Limerick trainer, R. Moss, saddled a couple of winners, both the property of Mr. R. C. Ross, whose luck has not been in the ascendant of late, and the stable jockey, J. Moylan, also shared in the honours, riding both Goose Green and Some Toff to victory.

D. Ward, who usually rides the horses trained by Mr. M. Arnott, was unable to take the mount on Lady Nightingale in the Kells Plate, owing to an accident which occurred while he was riding at exercise, and Joseph Canty's services were requisitioned instead. Mr. P. Rogers's filly, who was shouldering a 7lb. penalty for her Leopardstown win on the previous Saturday, was not so well supported in the wagering as Atoi, but the latter, possibly feeling the effects of her hard race at the Curragh, never flattered in the race, and after Flying Prince had made a bold showing for over six furlongs Lady Nightingale put in a strong challenge, and won somewhat cleverly. The pair had met on exactly the same terms at the Phœnix Park in June, but now the placings were reversed, the three-year-old apparently having come on a lot in the interim. The Kilcock Plate was the medium of a considerable amount of wagering, every one of the ten runners having a quotation, and a capital race it proved, many horses having their names shouted as the winner before Goose Green drew out to dispose of Horatius and Grey Point in the closing stages, Mr. R. C. Ross's luck having thus turned. He later in the afternoon had another score, when Some Toff disposed of a big field in the Kilcoole Plate. For this Prestige was in chief demand, but after running well for about three furlongs she lost her place, and swerved, and Some Toff successfully shaking off the challenge of the outsider, Marten's Prodigy, prevailed by a neck.

Scarlet Silk and Flattery, who had finished second and third behind Royal Record in a selling race at the Curragh, met again in a similar class of race for the Kilbride Plate, and in this instance also the placings were reversed, Flattery winning comfortably, subsequent to which her owner had to go to two hundred sovs. to retain possession of the daughter of Captain Ross. The Nugent Plate was generally regarded as being a match between Fedamore and Brighter Night, and such it proved to be, although Brighter Night put in such a convincing display that his victory was never really in doubt, and Fedamore was beaten by many lengths. The son of Jackdaw had run five times previously without scoring, but his running now was very genuine, and he is a colt likely to gain further laurels for Mr. B. M. Slocock. The only favourite to score was Greenband, who, with odds laid on him, beat a field of three others in the Kildare Plate. Details :—

The prospects for the famous Galway Meeting on Wednesday and Thursday are as bright as ever, and the welcome news has been sent us by the Clerk of the Course that there was a plentiful rainfall on Saturday, which has put the going in grand order. Up to Saturday boxes for 85 horses had been ordered. There has been a spacious new stand erected since last year; it is built of re-inforced concrete, with a ladies' cloakroom and refreshments beneath, and there is an uninterrupted view from this stand. GAELIC GAMES.

KERRY WIN JUNIOR FOOTBALL TITLE.

Against a smart Longford fifteen, Kerry Juniors qualified their Seniors' victory and won the unusual distinction where Seniors and Juniors from the same county win outright. At one period in yesterday's match at Croke Park Kerry looked a beaten team. Their football was loose and disjointed, and Longford had the advantage in the first half, mainly through accurate post-finding by Hewston, Deane and Cawley. Before the half-time whistle Kerry recovered. McCarthy, Clifford and O'Connell played soundly, and Mahony's place-kicking was a feature. He is a fast, nippy forward, and it was mainly through his initiative that Kerry turned over on level terms—Kerry, 3 points; Longford, 3 points.

Playing very bright, vigorous football in the second half, Kerry quickly asserted their superiority, though the game was largely in their territory. Longford had pace and resolution, but were unable to penetrate a very sound Kerry defence. Clever work by Connell and Riordan resulted in a fine Kerry goal, scored by O'Donnell with a fast, low shot. Mahony fed O'Connor and Riordan was through for another point. Longford played on gamely, and seemed to deserve more than one score. The Munstermen, however, stayed better, and were far better fielders. Whenever their forwards got away they made good use of their opportunities. Mahony was slipping through repeatedly, and from a placed ball he shaved the cross-bar above the Longford keeper's reach. Graham brothers and O'Connor were prominent during the closing stages, and Kerry added to their lead. They were far superior in tactics and finish. Final score:—

Kerry—1 goal 6 points.
Longford—4 points.

So well have Tipperary been hurling recently that Antrim seemed to have a hopeless task in the 1925 All-Ireland semi-final. The Northerners have little material to call up. Yesterday's fifteen from Ulster were made up of eight men from Antrim and seven from Belfast City. Tipperary have yet to meet Cork in the 1925 Championship, but were representing the Munster Province by virtue of their success last year. At half-time Tipperary were leading by 7 goals 4 points to a goal.

Tipperary continued to monopolise the game, and the final score was:—Tipperary, 12 goals 9 points; Antrim, 2 goals 3 points.

THE CONNAUGHT CHAMPIONSHIP.

For the third time Roscommon and Sligo drew at Boyle yesterday in the first round of the Connaught Football Championship. Score:—Roscommon, 2 goals; Sligo, 1 goal 3 points.

O'TOOLE'S v. ST. MARY'S.

A hard fought game resulted in a win for O'Toole's in the semi-final of the 1925 Dublin Football Championship. Final score:—O'Toole's, 2 goals 4 points; Mary's, 1 goal 1 point.

MINOR HURLING FINAL.

At Croke Park last evening Owen Rhua's won against O'Toole's, after a splendid exhibition. Score:—Owen Rhua's, 4 goals 4 points; O'Toole's, 3 goals 2 points.

An eminent financial authority once told me that his idea of a good balance sheet was one in which the reserve was equal to the capital and the carry forward equal to the dividend. —Mr. C. G. Hamilton (Australian Agricultural Company).

GOING HOME WINS CHIEF EVENT.

There was an improvement in the attendance at Bogside on Saturday when some interesting racing was seen, if class was not well represented. The principal race of the day went to Mr. Edward Clark through Going Home. Snow Crest set a merry pace in the race in which Mocking Bird, the Lanark winner, was fancied to carry his penalty to victory by taking the apprentice allowance. Wyllie's horse travelled well for nine furlongs, when the weight began to tell. Richards had been nursing Going Home nicely the while, and creeping up steadily in the straight, he made a well-timed effort inside the distance and secured the verdict by three parts of a length. Impress ran well enough, but Snow Crest was finished when the pressure was turned on.

There was money for every runner in the Garnock Two-Year-Old Plate with the exception of the winner. Fully a furlong out it could be seen that Miss Mischief was not relishing her task, and it was about this stage that Grey Gown pushed to the front. The last-named was fighting it out with Louvello when Lady Hester, vigorously handled by Lindborg, swept down on the pair on the stand side, and secured the verdict by a short head.

Ruby K. proved a winner in the Fullarton Plate though practically unquoted. Well inside the distance it looked as if Tinanza would score, but she was running under extreme pressure. Edwin momentarily threatened, but Ruby K. came with a great rush in the last half furlong. Details :—

MOTOR CYCLING.

SPEED TRIALS AT BALLYOGEN.

WOODS' NEW RECORD.

A new Irish speed record was accomplished by S. Woods at the speed trials of the Rugga Rugga Motor Cycle Club on the Ballyogen road on Saturday last. Mounted on the 986 c.c. New Imperial, on which he has figured in the leading speed events of the present season in Ireland, Woods covered a kilometre with a flying start of about one hundred yards in 26 secs., which is equal to a speed of over 86 miles per hour. The previous best performance also stood to Woods's credit, having been made at the same venue in the early part of the year in the trials of the Ramblers' Club. Earlier in the day Woods had done 31 1-5 secs. on the same machine with a sidecar; but in neither case was the time quite good enough to win the handicap, the unlimited solo class being won by J. F. "Bush," with Woods in second place, and the sidecar class by H. Tate, Woods being placed third.

The afternoon was favourable to high speeds, the road being in nice order, while what little breeze blew was in the direction of the riders' progress, and, while not strong enough to assist them, reduced the wind resistance to be overcome. Next to Woods's performance, the fastest riding of the afternoon was done by Gordon Burney, who, in the unlimited capacity solo class, did 29 2-5 secs., a record for machines of that size, and beating his own previous best. Burney was fourth on handicap in the class, and also in the under 600 c.c. division, and he tied for second place in the 350 c.c. and 250 c.c. classes. "Bush" was rather liberally treated by the handicappers, and won both of the classes for which his 490 c.c. Norton was eligible. Another dual winner was H. Tate, who on a Norton won both of the sidecar classes. The small solo class (250 c.c.) was won by T. Smyth (248 c.c. Villiers) and the 350 c.c. class went to T. H. Byrne (348 c.c. Cotton).

The six events which made up the programme were run off expeditiously, and, despite a late start, the proceedings ended in good time. The results were as follow:—

TEMPLE M.C.C. ROAD RACE.

On Saturday the Temple Motor Cycle and Athletic Club carried out their annual 60 miles race over the usual course eight miles outside Belfast. The weather settled down to a persistent drizzle throughout the race, fortunately not developing into rain until after the race finished.

The entry of 30 was most satisfactory, all starting, and thirteen surviving the complete journey. There was a fortunate absence of accidents, except of a minor character. Brockerton (Excelsior) broke his handlebars when leading, repairs costing him ten minutes. Metcalfe broke the forks of his machine and was lucky to escape more serious injury than abrasions and scratchings. Brown, the veteran Dot rider, led for the first three laps, when Brockerton got ahead. When the latter broke his handlebars Brown again led, not being passed again until the last lap, when Spence (A.J.S.) forged ahead, to win by 26 secs. Stewart (Douglas) snatching third place by 3-5 secs. only. Results:—

	H'cap.	Time. M.	S.
1. Spence (A.J.S.)		70	29
2. Brown (Dot)	(4½)	70	55
3. H. D. Stewart (Douglas)	(16½)	70	55
4. Farney (Montgomery)	(30)	71	4
5. J. McGimpsey (New Imperial)	(13½)	71	40
6. Bridgeham (A.J.S.)	(3½)	72	22
		72	30

Stewart got the special prize for the fastest actual time, this being 71 mins. 34 secs., or something over 50 miles per hour. The low average was undoubtedly due to the weather conditions, combined with a poor road surface on part of the course.

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

Mark Marten and D'Orsay were struck out of the Goodwood Cup at 9 a.m. on Saturday.

B. Carslake has been engaged by Batho to ride Jarvie in the Stewards' Cup at Goodwood.

The successful jockey, D. Ward, has had the misfortune to break his collar bone, and as a consequence he has had to decline several mounts offered to him during the next few weeks. He was riding in a gallop last week-end when his mount stumbled and fell.

R. Moss, the County Limerick trainer, saddled two winners at Phœnix Park on Saturday, both the property of Mr. R. C. Ross, and both were ridden by J. Moylan.

WEEK-END RACING.

There was no striking feature in Saturday's racing in the bay, and this was due to the light conditions prevailing, more than anything else. At least, however, there was a breeze out of about W.S.W., but it softened considerably when rain came in the later afternoon, and when the tide began to ebb most of the competitors suffered in some degree or other. The week-end saw the return of Cariba (Mr. Herbert Dudgeon, Vice-Commodore, R.I.Y.C.) and Sheila (Sir Thomas Myles) from cruising on the Clyde, the former flying seven winning flags, won at the handicap racing during the "Fortnight." It is evident that Cariba has a turn of speed, as well as a full share of good looks, and it is certain that she will be seen racing in the bay in the R.A.Y.C. and R.I.Y.C. matches for cruisers over 10 tons during August.

ROYAL ALFRED YACHT CLUB.

There were "incidents" at the starts of each of the two matches sailed. The first came at that of the 25-footers, and as there was a protest over it the case is sub judice. Taught by experience gained early in the season, the boats of this class take no liberties now with the new starting line, the skewness of which makes positions deceptive. The start was at 3.5 p.m., and as they were to go away on a reach on the port tack, the usual trio had placed themselves at the windward end of the line. At about 15 seconds to go Punctilio, which was sailing fairly free, found that she might be over too soon, and with apparently plenty of room she held on across Fodhla and Alana, both reaching up to the line. As she hauled up for the start midway between the two, however, her boom and Alana's jib were foul of each other, the sail breaking away loose. Alana was thus a lamed duck and dropped out. Punctilio actually crossed the line first, but Fodhla was through her weather like a flash, and from that on led to the finish, the last real leg of the course from the South Burford to harbour being a tiresome beat. Finish:—

	H.	M.	S.
Fodhla (winner), Mr. W. M. Curtis	6	1	55
Punctilio, Messrs. Newsom and Stephens	6	6	30

There were only three in the Small Cruiser Handicap, viz.:—Geraldine, Barbara, Sheila II., but there might have been a fourth, for Eileen arrived about 10 minutes after the race had started, her owner being under a misconception as to the race being on that day. The gun was at 3.15 p.m., and Geraldine got away beautifully, only, however, to throw away this advantage at once by returning. What had happened was that she missed the sight of the "blue peter," the orthodox starting flag, the club flag having been used in its place. Probably the two others were in similar confusion. Anyway the three got away now on nearly equal terms, Geraldine having lost one minute, if not 30 secs. more, and it meant much considering the handicaps she had to give. By the way, is there not a tendency showing in handicaps to unduly burden the 21-footers? The course brought the boats round the S. Bar, Rosbeg, and S. Burford buoys, and from the last named they had a stiff beat home, and in its concluding stages the question was—would Geraldine concede one half what she had to give Barbara. At the close she was nearly 5½ minutes out of it, while Sheila II., in the softening breeze and fast increasing ebb, tailed off badly astern. Finish:—

Geraldine, Mr. W. McDowell	scr.	5	25	56
Barbara (winner), Mr A Richardson	15m.	6	38	23

Mr. G. H. B. Kennedy (Hon. Sec.) was officer of the day.

DUBLIN BAY SAILING CLUB.

Owing to the absence of four Wags which had left for the Shannon Regattas, the Class IV. match fell through, only one boat, Moosmie, putting in an appearance, and sail-overs are not allowed under the rules of the club. The only match, therefore, under club auspices was that for 17-Footers, and it brought about the re-appearance of Eileen, on which Mr. J. E. Mills used to do so well. On this occasion she was sailed by Mr. G. H. Jones, but she showed little of her old brilliance. At the start at 3.25 p.m. she led Pauline and Mimosa out. They had mostly a reaching course, and Mimosa was leader at the close of the first round, with Pauline next. All three were in close order on the final round, the distance to Seapoint mark and back, and in unchanged order they returned to harbour, where the positions occupied at the coal harbour mark decided the issue. A long and short leg made this buoy, and here it was that Eileen beat Pauline for second place. Finish:—

'A BOWLERS' DAY.

LEINSTER BEATEN AT CASTLE AVENUE.

Leinster suffered defeat at Castle avenue, in their Senior League match with Clontarf, by 52 runs. The wicket was good and easy and somewhat helped the bowlers, but rain fell before the start, and during the game a heavy shower caused an hour's adjournment, while the light all through was bad.

Clontarf made a good start, G. A. Tyndall and F. C. Buxton taking the total to 44 for the first wicket, but 5 had gone for 98. Leinster rang the bowling changes on Anderson, Edwards, Harrington and Penny, but with the exception of Buxton, who batted an hour and fifty minutes for a sound 45 (4 fours), the remaining wickets went cheaply, and the side were out for 122. Anderson took 4 wickets for 40, and Edwards 3 for 15.

Leinster opened badly, J. B. Ganly being well caught, low down at cover point, by W. C. Pemberton off the first ball of the innings, and with only 4 scored G. Penny was sent back. Half the side were out for 45, and the visitors were dismissed for 70, Anderson, being unable to bat owing to sudden indisposition. J. G. Aston and W. C. Pemberton, who bowled unchanged, had the good figures of 4 for 26 and 5 for 39 respectively.

Civil Service played Phœnix in the Park on Saturday, the match resulting in an easy win for the visitors by 6 wickets and 87 runs. Phœnix batted first, and E. L. Kidd and A. P. Kelly took the score to 44, when Nolan relieved Walsh, and got Kelly l.b.w. in his first over. Kidd left immediately afterwards, being well held by Blake at mid-on. J. P. Pigot then joined W. Hutton, and runs came rapidly. At 153 Pigot was stumped for a stylish 61. Hutton continued to bat well and compiled a splendid 89, which included 15 boundaries. Phœnix declared on the fall of the fourth wicket for 227 runs. The Service innings realised 140 runs. Pemberton batted merrily for 43. Kidd took 5 wickets for 53 runs, and Allen 3 for 45.

Pembroke gained a victory over Railway Union at Park avenue on Saturday by 23 runs. The home side batted first, W. F. Aylward, who opened with McCarthy, playing steadily for 31. Wickets, however, fell cheaply, eight being down for 68. G. Bonass then made a capital stand, putting on 42 with G. C. Byrne for the ninth wicket, and carrying his bat for 54, when the innings concluded for 129. W. Woakes did best of the home bowlers, getting four wickets for 22. Railway Union had five wickets down for 52, but owing to the very sound defence of W. Blackwell, seconded by C. Rankin and K. Downey, came very near pulling the match out of the fire. In an exciting finish this last wicket fell for 106. P. Murphy carried off the bowling honours, taking seven wickets for 47 runs. A. D. Cordner was very smart behind the wicket, stumping three useful batsmen in L. Bookman, V. Sully and K. Downey.

Leinster II. proved much too strong for Sandymount in the final of the Intermediate Cup, played on Saturday at Rathmines, and gained an easy victory by 6 wickets. Sandymount, who batted first, at one period looked like being dismissed for a very small total, as half their wickets fell in forty minutes for 37, out of which M. Stapleton had made 22. Thanks, however, to a plucky display by M. Crowe, the innings realised 156, the result of two hours' batting. Crowe hit out freely, and in a partnership with Holland added 52 for the ninth wicket. Batting an hour for 66, he hit 10 boundaries, but he gave a couple of chances. W. S. Despard had the best analysis for Leinster, capturing 5 wickets for 50 runs. Leinster found no difficulty in getting the runs, obtaining them for the loss of 4 wickets. F. W. Fox and A. E. Bex gave the side a great start, putting on 96 for the first partnership. Fox played a fine innings for 43, while Bex made no mistake in his contribution of 40. Later R. Sheppard hit about freely, and at the finish was unbeaten with 30.

Two experiments failed on Saturday. Fender won the toss at the Oval and put Kent in, who scored nearly 100 runs before losing a wicket, and afterwards, thanks to Hardinge, ran up a good total.

The Lancashire captain put Warwickshire in and saw his bowlers flogged by Calthorpe, while the veteran Quaife played with characteristic care. At one stage Calthorpe gathered 40 while Quaife tediously added 2.

Generally speaking, the wickets were in good order. At Ilkeston Notts met their neighbours and gave them a busy day in the field. Leeds also saw some tall scoring, Yorkshire starting in happy fashion in Roy Kilner's benefit match against Middlesex, the first-wicket pair, with Leyland deputising for Holmes, defying the visiting bowlers in traditional style.

Essex found Parker too good for them, the left-hander bowling with great effect on a rain-affected pitch. Good bowling by Bridges for Somerset upset the earlier Sussex batsmen, but Cook and Cox pulled the game round. Worcester scored consistently against Hampshire, and a curiosity was that the first five wickets all fell to Newman.

Mercer and Ryan rattled Northants out for a very poor score, and had not Timms got a brilliant 51 the visiting team would have fared very badly.

LEINSTER v. GRANGE CON.

(12 ASIDE).

Cricket is going very strong in Co. Wicklow, and Grange Con, who played Leinster yesterday at Rathmines, though they did not win, put up a very good show. In reply to the home total of 172 they made 122, and in Major Mitchell, Leigh, O'Mahony, and Moore they have quite useful batsmen, while in P. Norton, a son of the well-known coursing slipper, they have a medium-pace bowler of much promise. Yesterday Norton took 6 wickets for 46 runs. Score:—

POLO.

ALL-IRELAND CLUB.

One of the best matches seen at the A.I.P.C. this season was played on Saturday evening between Templeogue and Fitzwilliam. There was any amount of fast, open galloping, and the hitting all round was crisp and clever. The result was a win for Fitzwilliam by 5 goals to 2, but Templeogue experienced bad luck on a few occasions. For the winners, Major Kirkwood played a sterling game, his hitting being particularly good, but he got splendid support from Mr. Lillis, who played one of his best games. Mr. Cullinan was a splendid back. Mr. Trench and Major-General Hogan stood out prominently for Templeogue, and Mr. Arnott and Captain Daly played well.

FITZWILLIAM (5) v. TEMPLEOGUE (2).

Templeogue were the first to attack, but Mr. Cullinan drove them back. Major Kirkwood and Mr. O'Reilly then put in some good work, and Mr. Cullinan wound up the movement by scoring with a long shot. Templeogue kept up the pressure after the throw-in, but Major Kirkwood played a sound defence, and repulsed several strong attacks. Mr. Arnott sent out as the bell sounded for the change of ponies. Early in the second chukkar Templeogue equalised. Mr. Trench brought the ball down the centre, and sent in a good shot, which was tipped through by Major-General Hogan. Fitzwilliam made the pace subsequently, but the chukkar had almost run out when Major Kirkwood scored with a grand long shot. Mr. Arnott saved a fine shot by Major Kirkwood at the start of the third chukkar, but Templeogue were subsequently penalised for hitting behind. The ball, however, was easily cleared, and then play took place at the other end, where Mr. Arnott got on after Mr. Trench to hit the equalising goal.

They had only just lined up for the fourth period when Mr. Lillis, who led the attack, scored a fine goal, to give Fitzwilliam the lead. This was nearly wiped out in the next minute by Captain Daly, who had hard lines with a good shot. At the other end Mr. Cullinan scored with a brilliant back-hander, but the ball had already gone out, and the goal was disallowed. The fifth chukkar opened with a hit in by Fitzwilliam, but the ball was taken nearly the whole length of the ground by Mr. O'Reilly, who experienced the worst of luck with his shot. Some hard galloping took place subsequently. Mr. O'Reilly got away with a clear field, and struck the goal post with his shot, but Mr. Lillis got up in time to hit through the fourth for his side. Early in the last chukkar the Templeogue goal was attacked, and Major Kirkwood scored with a long shot. Hard riding was the order in the closing stages, but no further scoring took place. Teams:—

Templeogue—Major-General Hogan, Captain B. Daly, Mr. Maxwell Arnott, and Mr. J. A. B. Trench (back).

Fitzwilliam—Mr. F. J. Lillis, Mr. B. O'Reilly, Major T. W. Kirkwood and Mr. P. D. Cullinan (back).

Umpire—Mr. J. P. A. Larmine.

To-morrow (Tuesday)—Practice at 4 o'clock.

FRANCE BEATS GREAT BRITAIN.

By 59 points to 53 France beat Great Britain in the fourth annual match at Preston Park, Brighton, last Saturday. The home country actually won eight and lost five events, so that France achieved her victory on account of her attainments in the matter of second and third places.

ROWING.

DUBLIN R.C. ANNUAL "AT HOME."

A couple of heavy showers during the afternoon somewhat spoilt a pleasant afternoon at the annual "at home" held by the Dublin Rowing Club at Island Bridge on Saturday. The programme, which was made up from scratch crews, was excellent, although most of the members have finished rowing for the season, and were, therefore, not as fit as earlier in the year.

The feature of the afternoon's racing was the success of the crews stroked by F. Kelly. He won the Gunn Cup (pairs) heat and final of the Culpan Cup (eights), and the Moore Cup (sights). V. Lloyd's four had an easy win in the Fagan Cup, beating B. O'Reilly's crew by three lengths. The ladies' race was won by the Misses Burn and Nolan and the club swimming championship by W. Cavey.

LAWN TENNIS.

CO. DUBLIN CHAMPIONSHIPS.

To-day at Carrickmines a start will be made with the annual County Dublin Championships. A thoroughly representative entry has been received, and given continued fine weather an excellent week's tennis is assured. In the Men's Singles, the holder, E. S. Hornidge, is defending, and will meet C. H. Jackson in the first round. Other interesting first-round matches are—V. Allman-Smith v. T. V. Murphy and W. W. Woods v. S. F. "Barry."

The draw for the Ladies' Singles has worked out well. In the upper half Miss H. Wallis meets Miss N. Daly to-day, and in the lower Mrs. Blair White meets Miss Esmonde. Miss N. Stoker will play Miss M. Richardson in the first round.

SOCIETY OF JESUS—FEAST OF THE FOUNDER.

The feast of St. Ignatius Loyola, founder of the Society of Jesus, was celebrated in the Church of St. Francis Xavier, Upper Gardiner street, Dublin, yesterday. The Rev. C. Farley, S.J., was master of ceremonies; the Very Rev. F. M. Browne, S.J. (Superior), celebrant; the Rev. P. McGlade, S.J., deacon; and the Rev. R. Gwynn, S.J., sub-deacon. Solemn Benediction followed the High Mass.

The Rev. Vincent Byrne delivered an eloquent address on the life and works of St. Ignatius. He appealed to young men and women to profit, as St. Ignatius did, by Christian reading.

There was Solemn Benediction in the evening, when the preacher was the Rev. Henry Foley, S.J.

Doctors of repute should certainly be free to write articles for publication in the newspapers on matters of general knowledge and general hygiene.—Sir Bruce Bruce-Porter.

TRAVELLING EXPENSES TO COUNTY BOARDS.

MONAGHAN COUNCILLOR'S VIEWS.

The Monaghan County Council at its last meeting discussed the provision in the Local Government Act which allows the payment of expenses to members of county bodies attending meetings.

Several members expressed themselves in favour of paying their own expenses, as hitherto.

Mr. E. Kelly mentioned that only recently he was offered £10 for his vote. If it took place again he would make an example of the man who offered the bribe.

The Chairman expressed the hope that the disgraceful practice of bribery would never gain a foothold in County Monaghan.

Colonel Madden moved that members of the Council should defray their own travelling expenses, and Mr. Fealy moved an amendment. After some discussion, it was decided to take no action, the claiming of expenses to be left in the hands of councillors themselves.

MIXED BATHING AT YOUGHAL.

CARETAKER'S WARNING UNHEEDED.

At the Youghal Urban Council on Thursday night, the Chairman, Mr. M. Whelan, stated that mixed bathing was going on in their midst of late. High authorities took strong exception, and he had a letter from the clergy calling on the Council to take steps to stop the practice. The Council should do all in their power to enforce the bye-laws. The Strand caretaker had got directions to prosecute any offender, and to seek the assistance of the Civic Guard if necessary.

Mr. M. D. Broderick said that they took a risk in trying to divide up the Strand, but their efforts proved a failure, as the ladies would not give up their rights.

It was unanimously decided to put the bye-laws into force.

The Strand caretaker reported that ladies were bathing all over the place. When he pointed out their own grounds they only laughed and said where was the harm. Notices that he put up were torn down the moment that his back was turned. Opposite the men's place ladies placed themselves all over the Strand. He had to speak harshly to some to leave; others asked him what authority had he, and what harm were they doing. He said that he should report them, and they said "fire away." (Laughter.)

Chairman—They may get a rude awakening.

SOUTH AFRICAN FARMERS' VISIT.

ENTERTAINMENT AT HULL.

South African farmers, who are to visit Dublin during Horse Show week, were entertained to luncheon at Hull by the Lord Mayor, Sheriff, and members of the Wembley Committee on Saturday last. Mr. A. C. V. Baines, of Cape Province, acknowledging their welcome, said that they must not expect the same intense Imperialistic spirit in South Africa as prevailed in Canada, Australia and New Zealand. England's job was to help them to cultivate their South African nationality first. It was only when they had done that that they had any right to expect greater and wider pride in South Africa's membership of the British Commonwealth of Nations. He had frequently been asked: "Are things all right in South Africa?" His reply was: "You have no need to worry about South Africa. Give us plenty of rope and we shall bind ourselves a little closer." Mr. Baines strongly advocated reciprocity in trade. "If, in self-defence, you have to close the door against us," he added, "don't bang it." Mr. J. P. Kleynhans urged the British people not to let commercialism kill their nationality and traditions.

PROFESSOR PAUL KANAMORRI.

There was a very large gathering at the Metropolitan Hall, Dublin, on Sunday night to hear a lecture given by Professor Paul Kanamorri, of Japan, on the dangers of Modernism. Professor Kanamorri became a Christian fifty years ago through the teaching and influence of Captain Janes, an American military officer. When he rejected his native faith, Confucianism, he was cast adrift by his family, the only possessions left to him being two books—the Bible and the "Pilgrim's Progress." He is very well known in Japan as an Evangelistic preacher and social service worker.

IN THEATRE AND CINEMA.

WEEK'S ENGAGEMENTS

After its three weeks' holiday season, the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, will be reopened this evening with a comedy entitled "The Rising Generation," a production in which youth is allowed to have its fling. The story tells how two children, just returned from school, deport themselves in the absence of their parents for a period of three days. The butler in the play is probably the outstanding character, and round his entries and exits a great deal of the humour of the play revolves.

Joe Birmingham's "Big Twelve" is the main attraction in next week's fare at the Theatre Royal. The dozen in question make up a band which has established a reputation for musical performance above the average. The leader of the band has had quite an interesting career. The son of a military bandmaster, he was organist at several churches in India before organising the "Big Twelve." The Merry Four, a vocal harmony quartette, will also be heard. Lena Brown, comedienne; Torravi, vocalist; Jerez and Ford, comedy acrobats, and Alex Mander, comedy conjuror, complete the programme.

A Cabaret Show, under the title: "The Jog Trot," will be presented by George Lawrence and Syd H. Parsons at Olympia Theatre. It is an entertainment somewhat out of the ordinary. The following contribute to it:—Leo Fields, George Lawrence, Frank Bass, Syd H. Parsons, Doris Drewery, etc. Special features are The Dan Thomas Quartette, with orchestra under the direction of Chris Ambrose, and the Empire Girls.

"Code of the Sea," a Paramount picture, in which the principal parts are played by Rod La Rocque and Jacqueline Logan, will be seen at La Scala Theatre this week. The story is rather an interesting one, of a feud between two families who follow the sea, the hero, Bruce McDon, having to suffer for the sins of his father.

"Never Say Die," at the Grafton Picture House, is the filmed edition of a clever farce of the same name, in which the late Sir Charles Hawtrey played during a long "run" in London. The story is of a young man, mistaken by doctors for a patient whom they expect and whom they give three months to live. Hence numerous complications and humorous situations.

"Children of Jazz," which will be shown at the Carlton Cinema, is adapted from the play "Other Times." The cast includes Theodore Kosloff, Ricardo Cortez, Robert Cain and Eileen Percy.

Anna Nillson is the heroine of "The Good Bad Girl," at the Metropole Cinema this week. The film deals with motion-picture life, and the scenes were actually "shot" whilst a forest fire was raging, and threatening the lives and property of the players. Despite the excitement some beautiful scenes were taken at "The Rose Cottage."

"Tiger Thompson," at the Grand Central Cinema, is another film showing Harry Carey, the cowboy delineator. The story treats of a notorious gang of outlaws and a search for buried treasure. There are plenty of thrills, particularly in a reckless horse-riding feat.

TUBERCULOSIS.

NORTHERN REPORT ON TREATMENT

The Medical Commission appointed by the Government of Northern Ireland to inquire into the Spahlinger and other treatments of tuberculosis has presented its report to the Tuberculosis Committee. The report states that in most of the large medical centres which the Commission visited there are special institutes for research in medicine. The Commissioners are of opinion that if such an institute were established in Belfast it would do much to keep medical work in Northern Ireland up to modern requirements and would be of great service to the welfare of the community.

The report refers to the world-wide interest taken in the Spahlinger and the "gold" treatments of consumption. It speaks of the remarkable clinical results which have attended the Spahlinger treatment, but expresses no opinion on the theories and pathological work of Spahlinger. Spahlinger himself is most anxious to give a clinical demonstration of the values of his sera and vaccine in Northern Ireland, but owing to financial difficulties he cannot guarantee to do so.

The report states that the "gold" cure of Professor Moellgaard, of Copenhagen, is still in the experimental stage; but physicians who have tried it say that in selected cases of pulmonary tuberculosis its value is very great. The Commission has obtained a supply of the "gold" compound for trials in the Municipal Sanatorium and the Forster Green Hospital, but until the results of the trials have been ascertained no supplies will be available for general use. The Commission express their thanks to the Tuberculosis Committee, to the Northern Government and the Prime Minister (Sir James Craig) for their assistance and encouragement.

HEALTHY BABIES.

RESULTS OF RATHMINES COMPETITIONS.

At the prize-giving in connection with the Rathmines (Dublin) "Baby Week," which took place at Rathmines Town Hall on Saturday afternoon, Dr. Hooper, addressing the meeting, said that there was a very high standard of excellence in the babies presented for competition. The Child Welfare work had had very good results in making people give more thought to the maintenance and preservation of child life. Everything must have a beginning, and disease often began from want of care in small matters. Cancer research had shown that the virus which caused cancer would not develop unless certain other elements were present.

Mrs. Kettle presented the prizes, and thanked the doctors who had given their services during the week. Judging, she said, had been a difficult matter owing to the number and excellence of the entries.

The following were the principal prize winners:—

Class 1.—Babies, 3-9 months—John Farrell, 9 Hollyfield Buildings.

Class 2.—9-18 months—Eamon Crowe, 95 Harold's Cross Cottages.

Class 3.—18 months to 3 years—Matthew Hopkins, 9 The Square, Kimmage.

Class 4.—Twins up to 4 years—The Buller twins, 84 Mountpleasant Buildings.

Pram Parade—1, Mrs. Larkin, Ranelagh; 2, Mrs. Lewis, Richmond Hill.

The total number of entries was 198, which included some from city babies' clubs.

MR. LARKIN AND HOUSING.

A NORTH DUBLIN UNION SCHEME

Speaking at Burgh quay, Dublin, yesterday, Mr. James Larkin said that a boat with coal for the workers would arrive in Dublin that evening, and that the work of unloading her would begin to-day. The Dublin Commissioners, he said, were reducing the rates by discharging men after years of service. He had made a proposal to take over the North Dublin Union, and provide accommodation there for the housing of a thousand families at not more than a shilling a week per family, but he could get no further than being told that "the proposal was under consideration."

SCOTTISH MANSION FIRE.

CHILD AND TWO NURSES BURNED TO DEATH.

An early morning fire on Saturday destroyed Murrayshall House, Perthshire, the home of Major A. J. G. Murray-Graham, and Major Murray-Graham's four-year-old son and heir and two nurses, Miss Watt (35), of Andover, and Miss Irene Manson (20), of Mitcham, were burned to death.

The fire broke out in a room under the night nursery, and when an alarm was raised nothing could be done to save the nurses and child, whose screams could be heard.

The cook and other servants on the top floor had narrow escapes, and had no time to save their belongings.

When Major Murray-Graham arrived at Perth on Saturday morning from London the news was broken to him. He found the house in ruins, and the firemen unable to find the bodies in the debris. He left after about an hour to travel to France, where his wife is on a health vacation. For some time lately the family had been residing in Berkshire, and the household was to assemble with a party on August 5 for the shooting season.

U.S. MARKETS.

FIRM CLOSING OF STOCKS.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, Saturday.

Stocks opened irregular, and became firm, despite the intermittent profit-taking and short selling. A bullish demonstration for Motors and Motor Accessories caused heavy covering in other sections, and many leaders touched the year's highest levels. Medium-priced Railroads also were taken confidently, but Oil shares were unsettled by a sharp break in Pan.-American Petroleum. The market closed firm. Government Bonds firm; Railroad Bonds irregular. The day's sales totalled 690,000 shares.

PROVISIONS opened steady, and prices improved owing to the firmness of hogs, light receipts and local buying. A reaction set in later, influenced by the decline in corn, unfavourable European advices, lower hog quotations and moderate selling by packers, and the market closed easy, with lard 10 to 7½ points and ribs 10 to 12½ points down.
